North Carolina Telegraph

"BE JUST AND FEAR NOT! LET ALL THE ENDS THOU AIM'ST AT BE THY COUNTRY'S, THY [illegible] AND TRUTH'S."

VOL. 7. GOLDSBOROUGH, N. C., MAY 23. 1855. NO. 8.

THE TELEGRAPH.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT

ROBINSON & BARCLIFT'S

PUBLICATION OFFICE,

FOR N. D. FENNELL & CO.,

EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

TERMS.

THE NORTH CAROLINA TELEGRAPH will be sent to Subscribers at Two Dollars per annum if paid in advance. Two Dollars and a half if payment is delayed three months, and Three Dollars if delayed a year. These

1 square, 1 year,	8 00	One column "	85
2 squares, 1 year,	15 00

☞ Letters on business, and all communications intended for publication, must be post paid.

[From "Arthor's Home Gazette."

THE SUNSHINE AFTER THE RAIN.

BY VIRGINIA F. TOWNSEND.

It was a bright evening in the latter part of May. Somewhere in the country stood an old farm house, large, rambling and ill-shapen; and yet there was a kind of picturesque beauty about the tall, narrow windows and high gables, which gave to the old building its quaint, almost comical physiognomy. The large, irregular garden, too, had preserved, to a wonderful degree, the expression of the old farm-house. You felt, somehow, that such a garden could only belong to just such a building There was the same kind of plethoric amplitude about it, the same rambling, disconnected details, forming a not unpleasant whole. The shrubbery was thick and indifferently trimmed, and the many fruit trees stood up with a kind of awkward strength, and flung out their long limbs in a bold, manly sort of way, which reminded you of the old Revolutionary pioneers, or it may be, farther back, of the days of that priest-prince, Oliver Cromwell, and his army of solemn heroes. But, as I was saying, it was a May evening, and the sweet, serious moonlight lay all about the garden and the farm-house in the country. It touched up the old gables, it waxed coldly to the shadows that lay in dark, tangled masses under the great trees.

The moonshine looked into the house, too, and there was one chamber, a corner one, where the soft, spiritual light seemed (but after all this may have been mere fancy) to drop with a clear, sadder beauty, than it did any where else.

The window was partially opened, and every few moments the breeze would come and fold away the dainty white curtains, so that the May moon could look into the chamber.

It was a plain, old-fashioned one, but looking very comfortable with its striped carpet and painted wooden chairs. There was a bed, too, in one corner, with high posts and chintz curtains, such as you may have seen in your grandmother's spare chamber; and on this two children were slumbering. The heads were laid close together, and the moonlight, as it quivered over them like a faintly spoken blessing, brought out the two profiles distinctly. They were very unlike, and yet each in its kind was very fair. The arm of one of the girls was wound about the neck of her companion, and her brown curls were tangled up with the dark locks of the other.

But the character of the two faces was a study. They were so dissimilar, as the author of Christmas Traits says, "you felt that if the life of one would be a picture, that of the other would be a poem." Neither of those faces had gone out from the sunshine of its tenth summer, and yet there was a dreamy thoughtfulness on the small ripe lips, that seemed hardly to repose even in sleep.

They were not sisters, those sleepers, but orphans, and the memory of either could hardly travel back to a time when they had been separated. For nearly five years had the echoes of the farm-house gathered up the sound of their childish glee, and Abbie Glenn and Grace Newman only knew they were orphans by name.

But we will leave them with the angels and the May moon, and go down stairs. for a scene is transpiring at this quiet house which will color the warp of their whole future.

"Come, come, Aunty Hill, don't feel so bad about it. You've altogether too much sense to give away so. All our tears can't bring the dead back; and many times they're a great deal better off than we could make them, if they were with us."

The speaker was a man somewhere on the hither side of fifty; large, muscular and well formed, with a clear bright eye, and a mouth which, despite the lines of strong will about it, looked kindly and good-humored. He wore his old-fashioned coat, too, just as the house did its angles and abutments, so that you felt at once he was its proprietor.

"I know it, Uncle Nathan," said the housekeeper, trying to steady her voice and shut back the tears that would dampen her eyes, "it's all very true what you are saying, but then James was my only brother. He was younger than I, too, and I always used to think I felt more like a mother than anything else towards him, even when we played together in the corn fields at home; and now to think of his dying off their in Georgia—"

A fresh spring of tears bubbled [illegible] the poor woman's eyes, and cou[illegible] the sentence. Mr. Glenn took [illegible] hand [illegible] suddenly seized with a strong impulse to inspect the moonlight.

There was a few moments' silence in the sitting-room, and then Mr. Glenn asked abruptly:

"Mrs. Hill, (an adjective he never used, except when he wished to be unusually emphatic,) didn't your brother leave a son?"

"Yes," answered the housekeeper.—"Poor Marcus! he will be thirteen next August, and what will become of the poor fatherless and motherless child?"

"Precisely what I was thinking," said Mr. Glenn, turning round and confronting his housekeeper, as though he thought it a remarkable coincidence. "Just send for your nephew to come up here; there's room enough in the house, I reckon, and if there isn't it'll bear another addition.—He'll be just the one to climb trees and hunt berries for the hair-brains up yonder. Once more, I say, send for your nephew, Mrs. Hill; he's welcome, as long as he wishes to stay.

The housekeeper did not answer with her lips, but there flashed through her tears, there beamed from every lineament of her kind, motherly face, a look which epitomized whole volumes of grateful thanks.

And in the chamber above, the children slept on in the white arms of the May moonlight.

—

"Uncle Nathan's going to send for him next week; and now, girls, you'll have a first-rate playmate."

It was morning, some two weeks after the decis[illegible] respecting the future home of Marcus's nephew had been made, that she announced this to Abbie and Grace, while they sat at breakfast.

Mrs. Hill had talked a long time, dwelling, with pardonable vanity, on the virtues moral and mental, of her nephew, and amplified considerably upon the advantages which would be mutually derived from such an association.

The half-despatched muffins had been laid down, and the steam from the china tea-pot rolling off soft gray clouds for the last half-hour, when Mrs. Hill paused.

Abbie took up the subject.

"Oh! it will be so, so delightful, Gracie." said the restless child, with ecstatic springs on her seat. "We can have somebody now to help hold our ropes, and put up our swings, and pull down the plum branches, without going to Uncle Nathan and having him say, as he always does, "Tut, tut, what Tom-boys."

Grace laughed a clear, rich laugh, that no matter how weary and jaded and anxious your heart might have been, would have fallen upon it like old music.

"Yes, it will be delightful, Abbie," she said; and "then, when the summer days are so long and hot, and we cannot go out, we will all three sit in the house and play Fairy land, or building great castles among the beautiful clouds of sunset—you and Marcus and I, Abbie. Does Marcus know any stories, Aunty Hill?"

"Well, I expect he does, dear heart," said the good old lady, with one of her most genial smiles. "It's true he was only six months old when I saw him last, but the doctor said he was a remarkable baby and would, no doubt, make a wonderful child. But dear me, children, the breakfast-table [illegible] she broke with a silver ladle the yellow [illegible] which had gathered over the toast.

So they sat long at the breakfast table that fair June morning, and talked of the time when Marcus should be with them, and painted bright pictures and framed them with the golden light of the future.

For the next two weeks little was talked of at the farm house but the coming of Marcus, and if Uncle Nathan did say 'pish' and 'tush,' every body knew he had been down to the stage office twice, to see if the boy had arrived.

Oh, there was a great, warm heart throbbing beneath the brown coat of the old bachelor! Abbie's father knew this when he said with his dying breath, "Take my motherless girl to Nathan, and tell him to be a father to her for Ben's sake;" and his gentle sister knew it, too, when she twined the bright curls of Grace round her cold fingers, and whispered, "Give her to Nathan, and tell him it was his 'Little Mary' sent here to him."

It is true he had a little outside roughness about him, and I couldn't begin to enumerate the man's eccentricities, the most prominent of which was dogged obstinacy when once his opinion was settled, as he had it,

But once find the way to Uncle Nathan's heart, and all was right then; and here again it was just like the old house, full of mysterious entries and dark corners, and suspicious looking closets; but all well enough when you got into them.

At last Marcus came, very unexpectedly, as long-expected guests are so apt to do.

For five consecutive nights had Mrs. Hill worn her gray silk and best muslin cap to receive him, and that morning she was overlying a plate of freshly pared apples with a most delicious pie crust, while [illegible] and Grace, on either side of her [illegible] ing their first lesson in [illegible] y, when Farmer Glenn entered [illegible] again. "Here, here's your nep[illegible]"

The word[illegible] were like an electric shock to the whole trio[illegible] but Uncle Nath[illegible] had a bachelor's horr[illegible] of a scene, so he did not stay to witness this one, and you, reader, can imagine it.

"Isn't he a fine boy? Didn't I tell you so, darlings?" queried Mrs. Hill, after the excitement was somewhat abated, and the boy had been duly presented to his new playmates.

The housekeeper's pride in her nephew was justified by his appearance. He was not handsome, but his broad forehead, his bright, dark eyes, and mouth about which the sprightly joyousness of his nature was ever effervescing in smiles, would have won you at once to the boy.

Abbie was of course, the first to answer. She came foward with a rare grace and self-possession for so young a child, and said, with one of her bright smiles:

"You are welcome to our home, Marcus."

But Grace stood on one side of Mrs. Hill, and only said this with her eyes; and so Marcus thought, "I shall like Abbie, I know I shall the best.

But an hour later, when the children had grown somewhat better acquainted, and Abbie, with her usual vivacity, had been laying out a of world play-work for the future, a little dimpled hand was laid timidly upon the boy's shoulder, and looking round, he saw Grace Newman holding up a small bonquet of exquisite moss rose-buds and geranium leaves.

"It's for you, Marcus," said the child, in a whisper; "I made it for you last Monday, and I've kept it ever since, so the leaves have not withered at all."

"Thank you, Gracie," answered the boy, as he took the flowers, with that natural grace which no courtly breeding can confer. "Then you thought of me sometimes, did you?"

Gracie's blue eyes grew dark as she answered, eagerly, "Oh yes, to be sure I did; and every night, before I went to sleep, I used to pray that God would bring Marcus to us safely."

The boy threw his arm around her neck; "Gracie," he said, "I shall always love you very dearly."

And in after years Grace Newman sometimes looked back on her first meeting with Marcus Homes, and from the sweet memory-bells of the past would ring down to her heart those words, "I shall always love you very dearly."

That day of Marcu's coming was marked with light in the calendar of the farm house but, after all, it was only a type of many of its successors, over which we may not linger. The child-lives were very bright ones which lay within the shadows of the old country home.

—

Ten years had passed. May, that beautiful proof-sheet of summer, was again rolling out her miscellanies of green and gold on the mountains and meadows.

It was evening, and the moon was coming over the distant mountain, and the light lay soft and serious, just as it had done ten years before, on the old farm house and the fields around it. Nothing was changed—the trees stood just as solemn, and broad and green; and if the building had grown older, you could never detect it in that twilight made by the moon.

The [illegible] into the corner chamber [illegible] breeze came up from the meadows and folded away the curtain, so that you could see into the room almost as if it were day. It had undergone many changes. There were traces every where of the softening, harmonizing touches of woman; if we except the high-post bed. That stood in the corner, with the dark chintz curtains, just as it had always done.

There was but one occupant of the room, and she sat by the window. What a glorious vision she would have been to an artist, in that attitude of unstudied grace, with one cheek pillowed on her hand! The small, finely shaped head, the dark hair, gathered into a rich rollat its back; and the clear regular profile, with the brown eyes and the red lips, made Abbie Glenn a very beautiful girl-woman.

But despite the graceful abandon of her person, the young girl was not at ease.—You could have divined this, by the restless movement of her fingers among the tassels of he dressing-gown; by the nervous tapping of her small foot on the carpet, even if you had not been near enough to hear the words she murmured to herself:

"It is strange Marcus has not returned this evening. Grace would certainly have come up and told me, he had come. Tomorrow, I suppose I must answer that letter of Mr. Seward's, and decide my future. What a brilliant one it would be, as the wife of the millionaire, and the mistress of one of those palaces on Fifth Avenue!—How every one would envy me, and what a simpleton Cousin Martha will think me to refuse so magnificent an offer, even if Mr. Seward does wear a wig and is almost fifty. For whom, too, am I doing this? For a man without family or riches, the nephew of our housekeeper!" And as the young girl said this, you might have seen, in the moonlight, the sudden curling of her rosy lips and the bridling of her small head.

"And [illegible] him. And no[illegible] and made a very [illegible] gle against, but my heart [illegible] its weakness [illegible] bright head" which Lord Duncourt said, last winter, would do honor to a coronet, will be happiest laid against your heart, and the fingers that lay calm and cold in the pressure of the millionaire will throb and quiver at your lightest touch! How my heart, too, is always going back to the old days, when Marcus, and I, and Grace, wandered together through the wood-shadows—those days that are the great jewels of my memory.

"He is gifted, and he will be great, too, some day, and then I shall be proud of him, my Marcus.

"He has never called me his Abbie, but then has he not said that it was a luxury to look on such beauty as mine; and do not his dark eyes follow me about the room, with a world of admiration; and is not beauty to him an intense, exceeding joy, and mine, surely, must win him. Sometimes, (as the moonlight can't tell secrets, I will admit it,) I have been a little jealous of Grace—sometimes thought his eyes and voice had a tenderer meaning when they addressed her—but, then, gentle and lovely though she may be I know he thinks of her only as a sister. Pretty she certainly is, but then am not I—" the sound of light feet on the staircase, broke suddenly upon Abbie Glenn's reverie, and a moment later a light figure bounded into the room.

"Abbie, Abbie" called an eager voice. "Oh! there you are by the window. I thought you must still be asleep. Is your head better?" and the speaker came up to Abbie and looked [illegible] into her face.

"Yes, Grace, [illegible] it is quite well, and so, when I woke, not finding you here, I came to the window and fell to dreaming in the moonlight. But what has kept you up so late, dear?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

CONVERSATION.

For acquiring the promiscuous knowledge required for conversation there is no guide but individual taste or chance; pick up what you can, like a sparrow in the street. For systematic knowledge we know nothing better than a hobby of some kind; it supplies a stimulant and also a storehouse for collecting the materials; it is a sort of artificial memory; it classifies the information acquired, and it provides an association for recalling it when wanted. A merely general stimulus is too blunt for prompting the mind to action; a stimulus ought to be pointed and sharp, like love itself. How easily love learns anything, and what mountains of difficulty it overcomes! A young lady who has a sweetheart, a brother, or a father in India, will make herself intimately acquainted with all the minute details of the wars of the East, and impress even the hardest and most unpronounceable names upon her memory.—It is all because Henry, or George, or papa is there; this is the pointed stimulant to urge her to study—the general desire of acquiring a knowledge of the wars in India has nothing to do with it. She does not care for the wars in India; she only cares for the object of her affection. She would learn chemistry, astronomy, or anything else, if love prompted. It seldom does prompt ladies to science but when it does (as in the case of blind Huber's wife, through whose eyes her husband acquired his scientific celebrity,) how very learned and intelligent they become. This is their hobby, and it leads them to knowledge, they are sure to pursue it. When it does not, as it [illegible] does, they [illegible] addicted to tale-reading, that there is scarcely an exception to be found amongst the sex.—They either read tales in youth, or nothing at all, and very frequently the passion outlives both youth and health, becoming the principal amusement of infirmity and old age, unless it be superseded by works of devotion, which transform the love from the sensual to the divine. Men are equally as averse as woman to abstract knowledge, irrespective of person or purpose. It is because men are compelled to pursue professions and trades in which knowledge is dispensable, that they are more scientifically nisposed. No doubt they are by nature better fitted for their vocation; but they require the stimulus to urge them, and the greater portion of them are so very reluctait that they break down, and abandon the pursuit so soon as the stimulus can be got rid of by any plausible pretext to appease the conscience. Knowledge is desirable to all, but few have patience to labor hard or long in the pursuit of it. They prefer picking it up in the amusements of society or the bustle of active life.

CAROLINA RICE AND WHEAT BREAD.—Simmer one pound of rice in two quarts of water until it is quite soft; when it is cool enough, mix it well with four pounds of wheat flour, yeast and salt as for other bread, of yeast, four large spoonfuls. Let it rise before the fire. Some of the flour should be reserved to make the loaves. If the rice swells greatly and requires more water, add as much as you think proper.

ODE TO A STEAM BOTE.

[illegible] ow! [illegible] to run
[illegible] got paddel wheals,
[illegible] dent; turn yure stead still,
[illegible] sun in the water
[illegible] Whats the [illegible] bile to go up?

[illegible] pour, you swim and [illegible] ars and blow and [illegible] t coal &
[illegible] ph, and if yu
Cant [illegible] the deep home
Morn a [illegible] but haint got
An [illegible] water with [illegible] masheen!

[illegible] because yu
[illegible] from [illegible]
[illegible] ask boats in
[illegible] bottom & scare [illegible] yu aint
Worth shucks, yu blo up and burst ure
Biler and throw peple up to hi as tworld
Kil em too fawl doun Deadfle destroyer
Ov humen lyfe! wheres yure feelinks?

Skow! yu awt too bee vessowed or else
Runn on dri land, or when the water
Aint more'n 3 pheat dee, and then yu
Can let hur rip. Wooden institushun!
Yu doo sum gud &moar dert. Puff, blo
Awa iff yu want too; only keap yure
Throte greezed, so you wont wheaze!

The Kilkenny Cats.

The Kilkenny cats have become famous in story. They now rank among the immortals. These famous cats devoured each other all but the tails. Such an exploit is by some regarded altogether fabulous and incredible. We were for a long time ourselves disposed to question its exact correctness. We thought there must be some mistake about it. But the feats performed during the present political canvass, satisfy us of the truth of it, and put the Kilkenny cats to shame. There has not been an encounter of political grimalkins during this gubernatorial contest in which each has not swallowed the other.—After a careful examination of the records, consisting of the journals of both parties, we are unable to find one solitary case in which the Kilkenny marvel has not been repeated.

It is needless to recite all the cases, to pile up proof on proof, and wamp our sheet with an avalanche of testimony. The reader can consult the political papers and judge for himself. Mr. A., for example, meets Mr. B., in discussion; a regular political and theological melee ensues: four or five hours are consumed in the wordy war, and the result is given in the organs of their respective parties. According to one account, Mr. A. is the most polished orator of modern times; his wit as keen as the [illegible] of Saladin, his logic crushing [illegible] the axe [illegible] The whole subject of controversy is at my finger's end. The way he handled poor B. was awful. He came down upon him in [illegible] one continuous blaze of oratorical electricity, piling red-hot thunder bolts upon his devoted head, till not a grease spot of the wretched man was left. Most of B.'s friends gave every sign of dismay and mortification, whilst others boldly avowed their determination to support the cause so triumphantly vindicated by the unequalled A.

Now let us hear the B. journal:—The late discussion between Messrs. A. and B. will long be remembered. B., who combines in himself the vehement eloquence of Demosthenes, the wit of Sheridan and the satire of Junius, was never in a happier vein than on the late memorable occasion. He had not spoken five minutes before his amazing superiority to his verbose and windy opponent became apparent to every man present. Never in our life have we seen such a thorough demolishing, such a complete and total annihilation of a human being as the unlucky A. suffered at his hands. The slaughter of the Turks at Sinope, the massacre of the innocents at Bethlehem, was nothing to it. He seized the ridiculous positions and shallow arguments of his adversary, and snapped them as a great double-jointed giant would crack the bones of a new-born babe, or as an anaconda would crush a lamb. Poor A. blushed like a woman, hung his head and appeared as if he was looking for a hole in the floor to escape through. In spite of his damnable political heresies, we could not help pitying the miserable creature, but the unsparing B. showed him no mercy. He skinned him alive, and then swallowed him whole. When the contest ended, nothing was visible of the wretched victim but the end of his big toe sticking out of the mouth of his devourer. The triumph was complete, B.'s friends set up a shout of victory that made the welkin ring, whilst the cowed and [illegible] followers of the late [illegible] A. [illegible] house to hide their shame in the darkness.

Such is the denouement of every political discussion of modern times. As it is impossible to discredit the statements of either party, we are forced to the conclusion that both accounts are true. It is a confirmation in all its length and breadth, of the miraculous combat of the Kilkenny cats.—Richmond Dispatch.

We read says Punch, of a first, and second, and third, and ever so many more parallels being continually constructed at Sebastopol. We do not understand much about such affairs; but, taking high ground, and viewing the whole matter calmly and dispassionately, the siege certainly appears to us to have been hitherto "a siege without a parallel."

Equestrian.—'Here, boy! come and hold my horse.' Boy.—'Does he kick?' Equestrian.—'Kick! No!' Boy.—'Does he bite!' Equestrian.—'Bite! No! Catch hold of him.' Boy.—Does it take two hold him?' Equestrian.—'No.' Boy.—'Then hold him yourself,' Exit Boy, performing 'Pop goes the Weasel."

TO REMOVE INK FROM COTTON AND LINEN.—Dip the the spotted part of the linen into melted tallow, wash out, and the spots will disappear, and leave the linen as white and pure as before it was soiled.

My Husband.

BY VIRGINIA F. TOWNSEND.

My husband was a very strange man.—To think how he should have grown [illegible] provoked about such a little matter as that scarlet scarf. Well, there's no use trying to drive him. It's settled that in my mind.—But [illegible] vexed—can't he though—and from this time henceforth shan't I know how to manage him? Still there is no denying that Mr. Adams is a very strange man.

You see it was this morning at breakfast. I said to him, "Henry, I must buy one [illegible] those ten dollar scarfs at [illegible] perfectly charming, and will [illegible] nicely with my maroon [illegible] so go out this morning [illegible] shop and all gone.

A cloud [illegible] gow [illegible] you know he answered in a [illegible] kind of [illegible] which irritated me ga[illegible] Besides I knew he could afford to get me the scarf [illegible] as well as not, perhaps my manner of requesting it did not suit his lordship.

"Gentlemen, who can afford to buy satin vests at ten dollars a piece, can have no motive but penuriousness for objecting to give their wives as much for a scarf." I glanced at the money which a few minutes before he had laid beside my plate requesting me to procure one for him; he always trusts my taste in such matters. I spoke angrily, I should have been sorry for it the next moment, if he had not answered.

"You will then attribute it to my penuriousness, I suppose, when I tell you I cannot let you have another ten dollars to-day."

"Well, then, I will take this and get me the scarf. You can do without your vest this fall," and I took up the bills and left the room, for he did not answer me.

"I need it, and must have it," I soliloquised, as I washed my tear swollen eyes and adjusted my hair for a walk down Broadway; but all the while there was a still small voice in my heart whispering, "Don't do it. Go and buy the vest for your husband," and at last (would you believe it?) that the inner voice triumphed. I went down to the tailor's, selected a very fine vest, brought it home.

"Here it is, Henry. I selected the color which I thought would suit you best. Isn't it rich?" I said as I unfolded the vest after dinner, for somehow my pride was all gone. I had felt so much happier since I had resolved to forego the scarf.

He did not answer me, but there was such a look of tenderness filling his dark handsome eyes, as his lips dropped to my forehead, that it was just as much as I could do to keep from crying outright.

But I haven't told you the cream of the story yet. At night when he came home [illegible] he threw a little [illegible] into my lap [illegible] ve, I opened [illegible] the very one I set my heart on at Stuart's yesterday. "Oh! Henry," I said, looking up and trying to thank him, my lips trembled, and then the tears dashed over my eye-lashes, and he drew my head to his heart, and smoothed down my curls, and murmured the old loving words in my ear, while I cried there a long time; but, oh! my tears were such sweet ones.

He is a strange man, my husband, but he is a noble one, too; and his heart is in its right place after all, only it is a little hard to find it sometimes; and it seems to me my heart never saw it so deeply as it does to-night—God bless him.

IT DIDN'T HARM HER.

It didn't harm her. No, not a bit. I tho't so. She's even lovelier than ever, her cheek has not los its color, nor her eye its brilliancy. It doesn't hurt, these women to flirt with them a little after all.

This was the soliloquy of a tall, dark looking man, as he sat waiting for the commencement of an evening entertainment at the opera, while a lady entered and passed to a seat not far distant.

It didn't harm her. How do you know it didn't? You were not a witness to all that passed in that young heart when she learned the painful truth that all those fond words, those assiduous attentions, which had won her heart, were meaningless and false. You saw not the crushing weight of agony that came down on that fair brow, when she awoke, as from a dream to consciousness, the shame of having given her heart away unsolicited.

No, you knew not the deep sorrow that crushed to the earth the bright sweet hopes of a trusting heart—not now for many weeks, aye, months, she wished for death to still its throbbings. No, no, you of the sweet [illegible] that came [illegible] arrived [illegible] give her [illegible] unspoken grief. No, she told [illegible] things, although you well knew [illegible] her to love you, and then ca[illegible] you as you would a withered [illegible] she told you not this. But I tell [illegible] No; man, as sure as there is a God in heaven, he surely shall he visit you with a judgment for this great sorrow which you have brought to that confiding heart. "It didn't harm her, did it?

Some one tells a good story of a broadback Kentuckian, who went down to New Orleans for the first time. Whiskey, brandy and plain drinks he knew, but as to compounded and flavored liquors he was a know nothing. Reposing on the seats of the court of the St. Charles he observed a score of fashionable drinking mint juleps. 'Boy said he, "bring me a glass of that beverage.'

"When he had consumed the cooling draughts, he called the boy again:

'Boy what was my last remark?'

'Why, you ordered a julep'

'That's right, dont forget it—keep bringing 'em.'

At a meeting of clergymen, not long since, a reverend gentleman by the name of Loss, of dimensions somewhat extended, both latterly and altitudinally, presented himself.—Says one of the brethren to him: "When you left your people you were a great Loss." "Yes," said another, "but when he dies he will be no Loss." "Yes," said a third, "he will be a dead Loss."

...RAPH.

...Y 23, 1855.

...ve a positive arrangement, that no paper will be discontinued until all arrearages are paid up. If subscribers wish their paper discontinued, they must send the money with the order, otherwise it will not be attended to.

Fanaticism.

Fanaticism is one of these convenient terms which men apply to actions and measures, when they find it difficut to reply to the arguments by which they are advocated. It is a word that carries with it an idea of something contemptible, unreasonable or absurd, while its application is very indefinite. Men who manifest an earnestness and zeal in any cause, are generally considered fanatics, by the opponents of that cause. Doubtless the Apostle Paul was looked upon as a fanatic by the opponents of the Christian religion, in his day, and were he living at the same epithet would be applied to him by many. "Much learning (an old remark) which was [illegible] some of this disposition to cast contempt on one whose reasoning could not be answered. The imputation that the brain of the preacher was turned, was well calculated to ward off the force of irresistible argument by inspiring the hearers with scorn for the speaker, by exciting a doubt of his mental sanity. The earnest advocate for truth, in all ages of the world have been branded with the contemptuous epithet of fanatics, by those who would not see the light, whose predjudice or supposed interest led them to close their ears againtst the voice of reason.

This application of a term which embodies much of odium and contempt, is a labor-saving contrivance. It saves the trouble of thinking, weighing, examining and refuting arguments, of showing where in the advocates of any doctrine or measure are wrong. It has likewise a tendency to predjudice, forestall the judgment of men, to predispose them to reject without inquiry, and condemn without examination. It is a device often resorted to, in this age of political and religious controversy. We take up a political paper, and read whole columns of denunciations against fanatical doings, fanatics, ultraists, &c. What does it all mean? Why simply the writer differs in opinion from those he is condemning, and is attempting to kill them off, by crushing epithets. "Only this and nothing more." He finds it easier to abuse than to argue, to denounce than to refute. It saves him the labor of study, and his readers, that of following a train of reasoning or investigating facts.

That there is a great deal of fanaticism in the world does not admit of a doubt. But we take it, that the man who can offer solid, substantial reasons for the opinions or measures which he advocates, advances arguments which cannot be, or are not refuted, is no fanatic, but speaks the words of "truth and soberness." That truth may meet with violent opposition; predjudice supposed interest, bad passions may unite in the fiercest hostility. But truth is no less truth, for all that. Reader, if you would form a just opinion of men and measures, be not influenced by the application of odious terms, which are the usual resort of those who are afflicted with a dearth of argument, but examine, weigh, judge impatially.

GOSSIP.

There is a lust in human beings that nothing can tame—thatof publishing their neighbors' faults. Scandal flies on eagle wings from door to door, while virtuous deeds and actions are but born to die. In fact, there is nothing so grievous as this abominable tittle-tattle, which is the cud chewed over and over by the gossips and street loungers of every village. That low vice, impertinent curiosity, is the ground-work of more than half the scandal that is heralded from house to house by the "do nothings" and "know alls" of every neighborhood. If every body would attend to their own business they would have no time to devote to that of others. We have heard it said, that by strictly observing two rules, you can make a fortune. One half can be made by attending to your own business, and the other half by letting other peoples alone. *

☞ Our senior has got himself in an "awful" scrape about that article on "Woman." Poor fellow, we sympathise with him, but can't render him any assistance. He ought to have known better than tell the truth about the ladies publicly. Matilda and Fanny seem to be of the right "stripe," and know how to use the pen. That last letter of Matilda's used him up Brown. Fanny's has not been handed in yet; but when it comes, (judging from her last,) it will breathe the right spirit. Dear ladies, have some mercy on our friend. You know nature made him what he is and he must be that or nothing. You must remember he is a bachelor in embryo, and must naturally have an aversion to the fair sex, and is always ready to expose their faults. We know the action was wrong, and condemn it; but we are like him, we detest fiction and must tell the truth, however you may condem us. *

Believe nothing against another but upon good authority; nor report what may hurt another, unless it may be a greater hurt to others to conceal it.

MARRIAGE.

Matrimony, in this age, has got to be more of a speculative or convenience business than any other. When matrimony is discussed, the first and most important questions are to know if the candidates are rich? and if they have parents living? which, if answered in the negative, a wedding is certain. But, should they unfortunately be poor, the thing is settled.—Poverty has no charms for matrimony.—Reader, what is forced matrimony but a hell—an age of discord and strife. The husband comes home sullen, and loves command and restriction. The wife never submits, grows flippant, loves contradiction, will have her way, or her fits. The husband pulls one way and the wife another, and they both find equal cause for fault. But how different is this from wedded love, that which is founded on esteem—pure, unselfish love, which never can decay, and time only improves its lustre. Young man or young woman look before you leap, think well before you embark in the uncertain business of matrimony, and be sure that you never make it a business matter. Marriage is a matter of more worth than to be dealt in by attorneyships, match-makers or speculators. Hear what the poet says of wedded love:

Though fools spurn Hymen's gentle powers,
We, who improve his golden hours,
By sweet experience know,
That marriage, rightly understood,
Gives to the tender and the good,
A paradise below.

"RENDER UNTO CÆSAR," &c.—The last Weldon Patriot, we see, has copied our offensive article on "Woman"—that very article which has provoked "Matilda's" wrath, to us, "the direful spring of woes unnumbered," and copies it without giving us credit for it. There are depths of infamy as well as heights of fame, and we claim all the disgrace that is due us for having penned that "scurrillous" article. The editor of the Patriot was absent from his post last week, and some one presided in his stead, we cannot accuse him of the "plagiarism." As it was copied without a word of dissent, we therefore charge the 'Editor', pro tem of that establishment with being a "woman hater;" we assert, and can prove, that he is a crabbid old bachelor, and that some lady has refused him lately. Now for the proof. We set out with the simple proposition that the same cause, under like circumstances, always and every where, "semper et ubique," produces the same effect. Matilda says that some lady has refused us lately, which caused us to write that article. Again, when an article is copied into a paper without a word of dissent from him who copies it, the inference is unavoidable that he approves the sentiment of the article which he copies. The 'Editor, pro tem' of the Weldon Patriot setablishment endorses our sentiments on "Woman," which is the same in effect as if he had written it himself. Our case is made out. Welcome, brother, to the society of doomed old bachelors. Misery loves company.

For the N. C. Telegraph.

MR. FENNELL:—We acknowledge the receipt of your excellent paper, and return you our heart-felt thanks for your kindness. A hasty perusal of your answer to our communication, was truly overwhelming upon our nervous system. What, thought we, how candid! how noble! the young gentleman is! And are we the instrument, the unwilling instrument of inflecting such poignant grief in the breast of a human being!!

By a judicious resort to ether and camphor, with which our room is always bounteously supplied in case of emergency, we so far recovered as to be able to give your paper a thorough perusal. But, then, what "a change came o'er the spirit of our dream?" "Eloquar an sileam?" Suspicions, deep and dark, which we fain would conceal, [illegible] A concurrence of circumstances drove us to the inevitable conclusion, that something must be wrong. We will give you a hasty detail.

In the first place, you pretend in the present issue for the edification of your readers, to give a description of man. The Bible represents him "a little lower than the Angels;"—you exhibit him but little higher than "Judas" or "Lucifer." We like to see editors orthodox. Then, why this extreme? Upon casting our eyes upon your former article on "Woman," we perfectly understand it. You there say, "man is a strange being, but woman a stranger." To get a lick at woman, you are willing to degrade man! You as effectually secure your object, by depressing the scale in the one case, as you would, by elevating it in the other. Our instructors here tell us, the comparative degree is som times used in a superlative sense, and they know something about it. We here not only see the exemplification of the rule, but we feel its force! "Man is a strange being, but woman is still a stranger!!! Here then, we make a point.

In the second place, in reply to our article, you retract every thing you had said, and, as in duty bound, ask forgiveness.

In reply to our sister "Fanny," you seize upon an inadvertent expression in her communication, to reiterate your most obnoxious charge in its most objectionable form, the "ugly comparison" in the second edition always abated. Now, what does this mean? The apology is worse than the offence! Those inconsistencies are quite suggestive.

But last, not least, a very singular incident occurred in Goldsboro', on the very day on which your paper was published, which has strongly tended to confirm our suspicions. A gentleman said in our presence that he did not think ladies capable of comprehending Latin! This happened in the 19th century!

Now, Mr. Fennell, in all seriousness, what does all this mean? Here in the same village, almost simultaneously, you attack our moral and social qualities, and your friend o the Bar, attacks our intellect. And what is the evidence of History, "that sacred chronicle of the past?" Are not Semiramis queen of Assyria, Tomyris of Scythia, and Zenobia of Palmyra as noble specimens of humanity as ancient record affords? Did not Catharine of Russia, Maria Theresa of Hungary and Elizabeth of England, perform the part assigned them at the head of their respetive governments, with an energy and vgor, that reflected honor on themselves and lustre on their country, and that infused alarm and consternation into the mind of the puny sovereigns by whom they were surrounded. We go farther. We assert, sir, that the most distinguished of modern heroes, owe the formation of their greatness to woman. In proof of this assertion, it is but necessary to point you to the history of the illustrious Washington and Jackson of our own country, both of whom, lost their fathers when young, and owed the foundation of their character to their mothers. The truth of the matter is this. The self-styled "Lords of creation" have thrown such restrctions around us, that our energies are crippled, our usefulness injured, and our talents concealed. Occasionally, like oppressed Poland, our sense have burst their fetters asunder, and shone with a brilliancy, that has dazzled and astonished the world.

In conclusion, Mr. Fennell, we wish to ask you a few plain questions. There are difficulties on our minds, which we think you can remove. We think a man of your countenance will act honestly towards us, however much you may be misled by your early prejudices.

There are a great many Free Masons we learn in Goldsboro' and vicinity. The ladies are very sedulously excluded from their association, except when they give a feast;—then we are politely invited to prepare it, and Sampson like, to make sport for them while they enjoy it. Then the Odd Fellows the name of which is reproach enough, as if there were not enough who naturally deserve the title, would form a body politic and walk identically in the footsteps of "their illustrious predecessors" the F. Masons.

The Sons of temperance are sweeping over the land. None but the male species are initiated in their Divisions, and we ladies called on only, when our influence is needed to give their cause success.

The youngest of this secret progeny is K. N. association. Now, Mr. Fennell, is not this thing gotten up expressly to curb the influence of us women? Is not the excitement goten up by Messrs. Powell and Robinson, the notables hereabouts, intended expressly to throw dust in our eyes, and to lead us on the wrong track? Are you not a member, and know all about it? We don't wish you to tell, if you are oath bound. We would be sorry for as good looking a man as you to be caught in such a scrape.

MATILDA.

When we read what effect our rejoinder to "Matilda's" Communication, had on her nervous system we thought "Surely our transgression is pardoned and our iniquity blotted out from the book of her remembrance." The gentle Matilda relents, she is too humane to consign a fellow-mortal to such a doom as she had pronounced upon us. She is unwilling to inflict such poignant grief, even on a crabid bachelor's heart." The dark clouds of despondency, black as night, that had settled on our spirit began to clear away and flee, as flee the morning mists before the rising Sun. "Hope the charmer" whispered "all is well." The sentence of eternal bachelorhood is removed. But would you believe it reader? After she had, by the use of camphor and other restoratives, recovered from the first shock, a woman's stubbornness returned. She resolves not to forgive us. In one of the most beautiful poems that adorn the English language, we are told that the tear of repentance was the gift which banished Peri to the Heaven and admitted the cording to her own confession, we "as in duty-bound," have asked forgiveness, and it has been denied us. Hear O Heavens, be astonished O Earth, and be horribly afraid, ye bachelors who make "scurrulous" attacks on woman. Cruel Matilda, can you be so unrelenting? Can female hearts harbor such vindictiveness? "Tantæne animis, coelestibus iræ?" Guided by those dark suspicions, she examines our reply to her communication, and to that of her "sister" Fanny, and makes out our case worse than it was before. And first she attacks our orthordoxy. While the Bible represents man as a little lower than the Angels, we represent him as but a little higher than "Judas" or "Lucifer." What saith the Scripture? "Thou hast created him a little lower than the angels, But they have all gone astray; there is none righteous." "The human heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." Could Judas be any thing more than desperately wicked? Who's orthodox, Matilda or ourself? A very ingenious and "suspicions" looking reason is given why we degraded man. We consented it seems, to degrade man, in order to get a lick at woman! Now as we had already got a lick at woman, before we consented to degrade man, it is illogical to conclude that we "consented to degrade man," in order, to get a lick at woman. So much for the first point, come we now to point the second.

It is charged that in our reply to her "sister Fanny," we reiterated the most obnoxious charge, the "long eared" comparison being always abated in the second edition.—How stands the case? We only said, that if the charges were so grievous, "Fanny" acknowledged its truth "The head and front of our offending hath this extent, no more." "Fanny," is the one that must come up to the "stratch" and ask forgiveness.—We are on our defence, and can't suffer "inadvertent" expressions to pass without a notice. "Last but no least," "A gentleman said in our presence that he did not think ladies were capable of understanding Latin. This happened in the 19 century!" "O tempora, O mores?!" That gentleman ought to be ashamed of himself. If he wasn't a member of the Bar, we'd think he had gone crazy. If he wasn't a friend of ours, we'd lick him. Matilda enters into a learned, eloquent and beautiful defence of woman against the charge of intellectual incapacity, in every word of which we heartily concur. We also go in for removing those restrictions imposed upon the "weaker sex." Hereafter we stand "flat-footed, square-toed, humpshouldered" on the platform of "Womans Rights." We have a "suspicion," not a dark one, but then a suspicion that we understand why it is that Matilda is so severe on secret societies. Woman's darling passion curiosity is baffled by them. Reflect what consequences his same curiosity has brought into our world. The serpent used every persuasive to induce Eve to taste the forbidden fruit, without effect, until he told her, it would make her wise, curiosity was then excited, she ate the fruit, and you know the consequences. Matilda "I charge thee fling away" curiosity. "The youngest of this secret progeny, is the K. N. Association.—Now Mr. Fennell, is no this thing gotten up expressly to curb the influence of us women? Is not this excitement goten up Messrs. Powell and Robinson the noubles hereabouts, intended to throw dust in our eyes, and to lead us on the wrong track?" We begin to suspect it is. We begin t have our "suspicions deep and dark." We'll enquire into this matter. "Are you not a member and know all about it?" Don't, please, don't ask us such a question as that. We've sworn a horrible oath, kissed a stack of Bibles, and swallowed a neat axe and a grubbing hoe, in confirmation of it.

For the "N. C. Telegraph."

MESSRS. EDITORS: Last week I attempted to give you a gentle chiding, for your want of respect to our sex, and you not content with your former blarney, have the face to try to justify yourselves by ironically begging off. Now young gentlemen you can't humbug us in that way. Come up to the "scratch" acknowledge your fault and "sin no more." You have a very polite way of getting around the truth—that of setting it aside—as a friend at my side has just remarked, "Truth is stranger to you, than fiction," and if you continue in your wicked ways the consequences will be fearful. But, enough of this, I do not intend in this note to notice your article, I consider sister Matilda enough for you, therefore I leave you to make acknowledgements to her.

FANNY.

It is a maxim in law, that every man is presumed to be innocent, until he is proved to be guilty. But we are commanded to plead guilty. We won't do it. We tried to beg off. They wouldn't let us. Fanny accuses us for trying to lie out of a scrape! We grow courageous, we wax valiant, we say to entire feminality

"Come one, come all, this house shall fly,
From its firm base, as sooh as I."

[For the N. C. "Telegraph."

Messrs. Editors: In looking over your last paper, I see that you have unwittingly got yourselves in a "scrape." Your article on woman has raised the ire of the fair sex to such a pitch that nothing short of an open confession of guilty will save you from a bachelor's grave. For my own part, I can see nothing scurrillous in your article, neither do I think that you are guilty of any very heinous crime. But "Matilda" says you are, and of course she has a woman's reasons for saying so. "She thinks you are, because she thinks you are." But, perhaps, if I had the keen perception of a Yankee, I might see the point that Matilda is [illegible] associations. But is a "portion of the free citizens of this country, who know their rights." Exactly! Perhaps Matilda is a member of a "Woman's Rights Association." Wonder if "Fanny" is not vice president of one. She talks like one in authority. But she says she would appear less "strange" were her society cultivated more. Fanny, dear Fanny, what faithless young man has played the truant with you? Do tell us, and we will endeavor to bring him back, and hear you pronounce the sweet word, forgiveness. Don't pour out your wrath on unoffending heats; spare the innocent; there is hope as long as there is life. You know the old proverb:

There never was a goose so gray,
But some day, soon or late,
An honest gander came that way,
And took her for a mate.

Have patience, Fanny. You may not die an old maid. Some gouty old bachelor will come along and take you off.

Now, Messrs. editors, this partly accounts for Fanny's hatred of the "lords of creation," It is very plain to me that she has been disappointed in love, and you know the poet says,

Heaven has no rage like love to hatred turned,
And hell no fury like a woman scorned.

OTHELLO.

'It's a very solemn thing to be married,' said Aunt Bethany. Yes, but it's a great deal more solemn no to be,' said her neice.

For the N. C. Telegraph.

HANNIBAL.

The world, for the last few centuries, has been the theatre of events, around which cluster recollections, that do honor to human nature, and animate men of the present generation to aspire to their true dignity. So much, truly do we find to admire in the lofty achievements, that characterize this period, that we seem in a great measure, to forget the heroes, who in the dim and shadowy ages of the past, have attached to their names a glory, which time can but perpetuate, and eternity confirm.

Roll back the tide of twenty-two hundred years, and behold a character, which challenges all competition. The historic canvas in its whole broad range, presents no scenes superior to those, which bear the traces of Livy's pencil; and even among those, no portrait so grand, and so imposing, as that of Hannibal.

To his ambitious and trancendant mind, nothing was too hazardous to be attempted, and nothing too difficult to be accomplished. His passage over the Alps, performed under such discouraging circumstances, is one of the greatest achievements that was ever effected by man. We cannot even read the description of it, without feelings of the most intense admiration. At one time the army is climbing up some deep and difficult precipice, where no beams the least [illegible] at another, it is forcing its way through a narrow defile, while the hall-clad mountaineers, hurl with savage, delight large masses of stone upon the crowdeed raks below, or tearing huge rocks from their beds, roll them down the deep descent, crushing man and beast in their deadly course.

Yet amid every discouragement, like a rock in the ocean against which the tempest madly dashes, wave after wave in vain.—Hannibal steadily ascended, superior to every obstacle, untill he looked down with calm composure upon elements, conquered and the Alps subdued.

That army, which in addition to the sufferings already encountered ie the ascent, a fall of snow had now broght to almost utter despair, he then led upon a projecting eminence and showed them the beautiful plains of Italy, stretching far and wide along the dark blue wafers of the Po. They then descended without a murmur, until that general, who at the age of nine years had sworn to his father Hamlicar, eternal enmity to Romans and to Rome; whose career since his first entrance into the army of Hasdrubal, until he stood at the head of an army upon a pinnacle of the Alps, had been one train of uninterupted success and glory; of which the downfall of Sayguntum was but the stepping stone, and the summit of the towering Alps, but a sublime sympol of his lofty spirit and unconquerable will. For seventeen years he held under his sway that country, whose boast was 'the seven hilled city eternal,' and whose trade and occupation was war The record of his triumphs has distinguished Ticenus, Transimenns, Cannae, and many other memorable places, in the pages of history.

But fortune is very changing and uncertain. The King of yesterday is the peasant of to-day; and the hero, whose name yesterday, was borne from lip to lip in notes of joyous praise, to-day is an exile unthought of and unwept. The lone rock-bound Isle of Helena, was the gloomy sepulchre of the great and gifted Napoleon. The talented Cæsar, after spending a life time in the battles of his country, breathed out his spirit at the foot of Pompey's statute, struck down by the merciless dagger of Brutus. Alexander, that prodigy of ambition, bore his arm over nearly the whole Eastern Continent, then died from the effects of a nights debauch. But Hannibal, he noble champion of his countrys rights, in a foreign land, surrounded by bitter and implicable enemies, was basely deserted by tha nation for whom he had won Spain, traversed a lone and desolate region, and was then contending against superior numbers, for the control of Italy. And when the dark clouds of anverity gatheted over his head, and the star of hope was enshrowded in the deep dismal gloom of dispair, he raised his hand against himself, to avoid falling into the power of an enemy, to whom he hat sworn hever to yield.

And thus passed one of tee greatest generals, not only of antiquity, but of all ages, and no less great as a statesman in times of peace, than general in times of war. And, although he sleeps the sleep of centuries, yet high upon the monument of Fame stands his name recorded, a living and glorious emblem of the immortality of Genius. D.

HOW TO PACK FIRKIN BUTTER.

Mr. Josiah King, before the Allgehany Co. Agricultural Society, gave a few particulars of the manner in which firkin butter was packed for the United States Navy. It was put in small firkins, made if possible of bass wood, that having been found preferable as freest from pyroligneous acid. The firkins were then placed in a cask, and brine so strong as to float an egg poured over them. It is in this way that butter could circumnavigate the globe, and yet be fresh at the end of the voyge.

☞ GUANO FOR MELONS.—We had a nigh destroyed by the striped bug. The vines had just commenced running, and in two or three days the bugs had stripped nearly every leaf. As a desperate remedy, we applied a handfull of guano on top of the hill as far as the vines had run, taking care that it did not fall on the leaf. In twenty-four hours not a bug was to be seen; the vines assumed a healthy and vigorous appearance, and were loaded with fruit. This experiment was not on one vine only, but hundreds.—Ex.

AN EXCUSE.—Little boys, when they come late to school, have to bring a written excuse explaining their derelictions.

Recently a little boy came extremely late, but without the least fear or anxiety on his countenance. He had a 'scuse.

On handing it to the teacher, it was opened and said:

"Missus—Whale the bearer for running away."

The model 'scuse was accepted and the little fellow was accordingly admonished in the region of his "sit-down upons."

REDUCTION EXTRAORDINARY.—A merchant in Wilmington, Vermont, having sunk his shop floor a couple of feet, announces in the Sentinel that, "in consequence of recent improvements, goods will be sold considerably lower than formerly."

A SOUND OBJECTION.—The Concord Statesman objects to a candidate for the Presidency, because, in the event of his election, his messages would probably make from fifty to seventy five columns of solid brevier.

"I LOVE TO STEAL."—An amusing incident occurred in one of our down-east churches some years ago. The clergyman gave out, on a pleasant Sabbath afternoon in July

"I love to steal awhile away
From every cumb'ring care,
And spend the hours of setting day
In humble, grateful prayer."

The regular chorister being absent the duty devolved upon the good old deacon M., who commenced—

"I love to steal——!"

and then backed down. Raising his voice to a still higher pitch, he sung—

"I love to steal——!"

but, as before, he concluded he had got the wrong pitch; so, deploring that he had not his "pitch tuner," he determined to succeed if he died in the attempt.

By this time all the old ladies were titering behind their fans, while the faces of the young ones were all in a broad grin. At length, after a desperate cough, he made a final demonstration, and roared out—

"I love to steal——!"

This effort was too much. While every one but the godly and eccentric parson was laughing, arose, and with the utmost ecolness, said—

"Seeing our brother's propensities let us pray! [illegible] say, that few of this congregation heard the prayer.

WOMAN.—As the dove will clasp its wings to its side and cover and conceal the arrow that is preying upon its vitals, so it is the nature of women to hide from the world the pangs of wounded affection. With her the desires of the heart has failed. The great charm of existence is at an end. She neglects all the cheerful exercises that gladden the spirits, quicken the pulse and send the tide of life in healthful current through the veins. Her rest is broken, the sweet refreshment of sleep is poisoned by melancholy dreams; "dry sorrow drinks the blood."—Until her feeble frame sinks under the last external assailant. Look for her after a little while, and you find friendship weeping over her untimely grave, and wondering that one so lately glowing with all the rudiness of health and beauty, should now be brought down to darkness and the worm." You will be told of some wintry chill some slight indisposition that laid her low, but no one knows the mortal malady that previously sapped her strength and made her so easy a prey to the spoiler.—Washington Irving.

EXCITEMENT IN MASSACHUSETTS LEGISTURE.—BOSTON, May 14.—There was considerable confusion and excitement in the House of Representatives this afternoon from the fact that Mr. Hiss, the expelled member, twice resumed his seat, and was each time removed by the seargeant-at arms at the order of the House, passed nearly unanimously. It is presumed that Mr. Hiss acted in this singular manner at the advice of his counsel, B. F. Butler and Benj. Dean, who have published an address denouncing the expulsion of Mr. Hiss as an arbitrary exercise of power and intimating that the House feared important developments to be made in the case.

TAKING DOWN A JUDGE.—One of the old fashioned attorneys practising in Indiana, insisted on arguing a case before Judge B., after it had been decided. Judge B. repeatedly told the ufortunate attorney that he would listen to no further argument in the case.—"But may it please your honor," says the advocate, "your honor will certainly hear an argument if your honor has decided wrong?" "No," replied the Judge, "if you argue the case any more, take it to the Court of Errors." "May it please your honor, I don't see where in the devil I'd go to, for if this ain't a court of errors I don't know where to find one."

Small faults indulged, are little thieves which let in greater.

To thwart a husband's fix'd opinion,
Is not the way to gain dominion.

The following choice production may be found in one of the New Jersey church yards

"Weep, stranger, for a father spilled
From a stage-coach, and thereby killed.
His name was John Sykes, a maker of sassengers,
Slain with three other outside passengers."

OWED TO DEW.

Notes "on the falling dew of eve,"
Are pleasant sounds in poet's songs;
But notes on eve of falling due
To those to whom the cash belongs,
(And who, not getting it, will sue,)
Are like the noise of harshest gongs!

Our lawyer who 'filed a bill,' 'shaved a note,' 'cut an acquaintance,' 'split a hair,' 'made an entry,' 'raised a haul,' 'got up a case,' 'framed an indictment,' 'empanelled a jury,' 'put them in a box,' 'nailed a witness,' 'hammered a judge,' 'chiselled a client,' and 'bored a whole court,' all in one day, has since 'laid down the law,' and turned carpenter.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE.—"If your husband is in the habit of sleeping after dinner, never, as you value a good temper, think of disturbing him; because I have learnt this thro' [illegible] 'forty winks,' he invariably feels [illegible] napkish for the remainder of the evening."

The editor of a newspaper down east has been bled to improve the circulation of his paper.

A lawyer, the other day, went into a barber's shop to procure a wig. In taking the dimensions of the lawyer's head the boy exclaimed, "Why how long your head is, sir!" "Yes!" replied our worthy friend; "we lawyers must have long heads!" The boy proceeded with his vocation, but at length exclaimed:—"Lord, sir your head is as thick as it is long!" Blackstone muzzled.

An autograph letter of Geo. Washington was recently sold at auction in London for fifty pounds sterling.

The Markets.

NEWBERN, May 20.

Since my last report, Turpentine has sold at $3, for dip and 22 to 28 for scrape. Spirits Turpentine steady, at 43 cts. Tar advanced to $3 for 32 gallons. Common Rosin $1,25 to 1,30. Corn, scarce, retails at $1,10 to 1,20 per bushel. Meal is scarce and is selling at $1,25 to 1,40 per bushel. Bacon (no change,) 9½ to 10 cts. for Hog round.—Mess Pork, $18 to 18,50 per bbl. Fresh provisions very scarce, and sellers fixing their own prices. W. O. bbl. staves, $15 to 16 per M. Ash heading $10 to 12½ per M.—R. O. hhds. staves $15 to 17 per M. Ton Timber $6 per M.

WILMINTON, May 18.

Turpentine.—Further sales yesterday of 540 bbls. at $2,70 for yellow dip, and $1,70 for hard, per bbl. of 280 lbs. No transactions to-day. Spirits.—Sales to-day of 281 casks at 41 cts. per gal. The market is quiet.—Rosin.—We hear of no transactions in either quality. Tar.—There have been no sales either yesterday or to-day. There are one or two lots on market this morning, but there had been no transactions up to the time of closing inquiries. Buyers are not disposed to operate at last figures, and prices have a downward tendency. Cotton.—We note the sale of 27 bales, at prices ranging from 9 to 10 cts., according to quality.

NEW YORK, May 16.

Naval Stores.—The market for all descriptions is firm, and prices tend upwards, excepting, perhaps medium grades of Rosin.—Stock of Turpentine, 8 a 9000, and of Spirits Turpentine, 6000 a 6500 bbls. Last sales of North County Turpentine, $3,50 per 280 lbs. We note sales of 600 bbls. Spirits Turpentine at 45 a 46 cts., cash, part of the latter in shipping order, and 45½ a 47, cash, for lots as wanted, from dock and store; 5000 New Berne and Wilmington Common Rosin, $1,85 a 1,90 (part afloat;) 2000 do. $1,95 per 310 lbs; 1700 New Berne, Washington and Wilmington Tar, at $3,50 as it runs, and $3,75 for shipping all in order, in yards; and City Pitch, $2,50 per bbl. Rice is quiet [illegible] dull, [illegible] prices. Sales 400 tcs. at $7,50 a 6,50, cash.—Salt—The market is well supplied with Liverpool and Mediterranean, and prices still favor the buyer. The sales are 4250 sacks Liverpool fine, 6500 do. Ground, part previous to arrival, 6500 bushels Trapani, 5500 do, Oadiz, and a cargo St. Ubes, (some time since, but not before reported,) to arrive at about our notations.

BALTIMORE, May 16.—Flour is dull—sales of 358 bbls. at $10,87. Buyers were only offering $10,75 at the close. Wheat is unchanged—sales of red at $5,90 a 2,70; white at $2,70 a 2,78. Corn offerings of 35,000 bushels—sales of white at $1,03 a 1,05; yellow, $1,07 a 1,08.

CHARLETON, May 16.—Cotton—There was again considerable animation in the inquiry to-day, 3100 bales having changed hands at full prices. The prices ranged from 8 to 10½ cts. per lb.

NEW ORLEANS, May 15.—Cotton is firm but transactions are few in consequences of the light receips and prices therefore are nominal. The sales to-day comprised onlly 2000 bales.

FAYETTEVILLE, May 17.—Bacon—Market steady. Cotton—Steady and quite firm. Fair to good, 9 a 6½; Ordinary to mid., 8½. Flour—No material change, Family, $9,75 9,87½; Super. $9,50 a 9,12½; Fine, $9,25. Corn—Prices somewhat variable, but the lowest quotations easily obtained, 1,30 a 1,35. Mollasses—Cuba 27 a 28. New Orleans, 33 a 32.

DR. B. F. ARRINGTON,

Having resumed the practice of MEDICINE, announces that he has permanently located in Goldsboro', and respectfully tenders his professional services to the citizens of Goldsboro' and surrounding country

April 24, 1855.

LOST a pair of Gold Spectacles for which the finder will be suitably rewarded, depositing them at this office.

May 7th.

WAYNE HOTEL.

THE subscriber having leased the House and premises on the corner of West Centre and Chestnut street formerly known as the Wayne Hotel, has furnished and fitted up the same for the reception of Boarders by the day or month.

Every possible attention will be paid to the comfort of guests, and his prices will be uniform and moderate. It will be his study and aim to keep as good a table and all other accommodations as his own personal attention, and the markets of the surrounding country will command.

Good stables will be furnished, and attentive ostlers will be always on hand.

ED. PITTMAN.

Goldsboro', 22nd Jan. '55. 1y.

Drs. B. F. & W. T. ARRINGTON,

ASSOCIATE DENTISTS,

GOLDSBORO', N. C.,

Tender their professional services in the various branches of Dentistry to the Citizens of Goldsboro, and surrounding country.

March 21. '55

HOUSE & SIGN PAINTING.

FRANCIS JORDEN, formerly of Portsmouth, Va., but now permanently located in this place, respectfully announces to the citizens of Goldsboro, Wayne and surrounding counties, that he is prepared to execute all jobs in his line of business with neatness and despatch. Orders left with Messrs. Andrews & Washington, or Jno. J. Bradbury, will meet with prompt attention.

Feb'y 20th, 1855. 7—

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

ATLANTIC AND NORTH CAROLINA RAIL ROAD COMPANY.

This Road is to extend from Goldsboro',—the terminus of the North Carolina Rail Road, via, Kinston and Newbern, to Beaufort Harbor, the distance being about 97 miles.

Proposals will be received by the undersigned at the office of the company in Newbern, N. C. from contractors of ability, until the 28th of April 1855 for the Grading, Bridging, Masonry and superstructure, including the iron, (the plan of Rail to be furnished by the company of 60 pounds to the yard) of those sections of the Road between Kinston and Goldsboro'—which at that time may not be contracted for by residents of Lenoir and Wayne counties, through which the road passes.

Proposals will be received for the work in sections of about one mile each, or for the entire distance of about 25 miles, and they will state what amount of stock and cash will be received in payment. As soon as the line can be prepared for contract, (and it is now in progress) from New Bern to Beaufort Harbor, the distance being about 90 miles, proposals will be invited for that distance.

The Maps, Profiles and Specifications will be ready for inspection at the office of the Company in Newbern, after the 15th of April 1855, where any further information can be obtained in regard to the work. The company have the right to reject any or all of the Proposals should they be unsatisfactory.

By order of the Board of Directors.

JOHN C. WHITFORD, President

W. B. THOMPSON, Chif Engineer

April 12, 1855. tf.—

Notice.

BOOKS of subscription for the increase of the Capital Stock of the "Bank of Cape Fear" authorized by the last General Assembly of this State, are now open at the Store of Andrews & Washington, in Goldsboro, under the direction of the undersigned Commissioners, and will remain open until the 25th of May next.

RICH'D WASHINGTON,
W. T. DORTCH,
W. K. LANE,
Commissioners.

Goldsboro, 14th April, '55. 22 6w

CHEAP LITERATURE FOR THE MILLION!

A PENNY SAVED IS TWO PENCE EARNED

FOR the more general diffusion of choice Literary reading throughout the community at a low price, we have been induced to make the following SPLENDID OFFER.

Believing there are thousands that do not enjoy the luxury of a Literary Magazine, who will gladly avail themselves of this opportunity, and many thousands now taking one or more, who will continue at low rates, we make this proposition, trusting it will be promptly responded to by all lovers of cheap and good reading.

We have Selected the following Magazines as being among the Best Published.

DOLLAR MAGAZINES.

The Ladies' Wreath, the Parlor Journal,
[illegible]azine and Family Monitor,
[illegible] and Parley's Magazine,
[illegible]s Youth's Cabinet,
The Christian Diadem,
The Watercure Journal,
The Phrenological Journal.

TWO DOLLAR MAGAZINES.

Peterson's Ladies' National Magazine,
Arthur's Home Magazine,
The National Magazine,
The Ladies' Repository,

THREE DOLLAR MAGAZINES.

Godey's Lady's Book,
Graham's Magazine,
Harper's " Putnam's " Knickerbocker, "
Frank Leslie's Gazette of Fashion.

BOUND BOOKS AT TWO DOLLARS EACH.

The Ladies' Wreath, the Ladies' Keepsake, and the Floral Wreath, bund in rich muslin full gilt.

Each volume contains over 400 large octavo pages of choice original articles from the pens of many of the best writers in the country, and 25 steel and floral embellishments.

On the receipt of the Money, we will send any of the above at the following Club Price, which is but little more than the cost of publication:

Either of the $3 Magazines and the Ladies Wreath or the Ladies' Keepsake,	3 00
Either of the $2 Magazines and the Wreath and the Keepsake, or either of the Bonud Books,	3 00
Either of the Bound Books, and the Wreath, and the Keepsake, or either two of the other $1 Magazines,	3 00
Four copies of the Ladies' Wreath or the Ladies Keepsake.	3 00
Either of the $3 Mag., either of the $2 Mag., the Wreath, and the Keepsake or either of the Bound Books,	5 00
Either of the $2 magazines, either of the Bound Books, the wreath, the keepsake, and one of the other $1 magazines,	5 00
The wreath, the keepsake, either of the bound books, and any three of the other $1 magazines,	5 00
The wreath, the keepsake, and any five of the other $1 magazines, or all three of the bound books,	5 00
Seven copies of the ladies' wreath or the ladies' keepsake,	5 00
Either of the $3 magazines, either of the $2 magazines, the wreath, the keepsake, and any two of the bound books, or one of the bound books, and one of the other $1 magazines,	7 00
Either two of the $3 magazines, the wreath, the Keepsake, and either of the bound books.	7 00
Either of the $2 magazines, the wreath, the keepsake, and all three of the bound books,	7 00
Either of the $2 magazines, or either of the bound books, and all eight of the other $1 magazines,	7 00
All three of the bound books, the wreath, the keepsake, and any two of the other $1 magazines,	7 00
Ten copies of the ladies' wreath or the ladies' keepsake,	7 00
Either of the $3 magazines, either of the $2 magazines, all three of the bound books, the wreath, the keepsake, and any two of the other $1 magazines,	10 00
Any two of the $3 magazines, any two of the two dollar magazines, the wreath, the keepsake, and any three of the other one dollar magazines,	10 00
Any three of the three dollar magazines, any two of the two dollar magazines, the wreath, and the keepsake,	10 00
Either of the three dollar magazines, all three of the bound books, the ladies' wreath, the ladies' keepsake, and any four of the other one dollar magazines,	10 00
Either of the two dollar magazines, all three of the bound books, the wreath, the keepsake, and any five of the other one dollar magazines,	10 00
Either of the three dollar magazines, either of the two dollar magazines, either of the bound books, and all eight of the one dollar magazines,	10 00
Fifteen copies of the ladies wreath or the ladies keepsake,	10 00

☞ Money may be sent at our risk, when registered by the Post [illegible]

☞ All letters must be addressed to

BURDICK & SCOVILL,
No. 8 Spruce Street, New York.

STEAM SAW MILLS.

THE subscribers have in successful operation, two large Steam Saw Mills, at Pine Level, on the North Carolina Rail Road, 18 miles West of Goldsboro. They are prepared to fill all orders with despatch, and hope to receive a liberal share of the public patronage. All bills sawed must be received by the owner at the Mill, unless special contracts are made otherwise—as the owners of the Mill will not hold themselves responsible for the lumber after it has been sawed and delivered on the road at the Mill.

BALLINGER, COGDELL & CO.

March 9th, '55.

SPRING, 1855.

KERR & MARBURY,

Importers and Dealers in China, Class, &c., &c,

Nos. 74 and 76 Sycamore Street,

PETERSBURG, VA.,

TAKE pleasure in informing their friends and the public generally, that they have returned to their old stand, and from extensive Importations this Spring, per ships "CENTURION, "CONSTANTINE," and "City of BROOKLYN," together with heavy purchases of Domestic Goods at the Factories, are enabled to offer the largest stock and finest assortment of China, Glass, Earthen and Stone Ware, Britannia and Silver Plated Ware, Lamps, Looking Glasses and Fancy Goods, that they have ever exhibited in this market.

Merchants and others are respectfully invited to call and examine, as we are determined to sell at the lowest rates.

March 15, 55. 4w.

CLARENDON IRON WORKS,

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THE CLARENDON IRON WORKS are now prepared to receive orders for Beam, Vertical, Horizontal or Oscillating Steam Engines, High or Low Pressure, and adapted to all purposes; Circular, Vertical and Portable Saw Mills, complete; Pumps, Mining Machinery, Grist and Flour Mills complete; Parker, Turbine and other Water Wheels, Equipping of Steamers, Car Wheels and Axles; Horse Powers of various pattern, Rice Field pumps and Engines; Rice Threshers; Shingle Machines, Shafting, Pullies, Hangers, Gears, and all other Mill Work.

CASTINGS,

Iron and Brass Castings of all descriptions, including Ornamental Iron Railing, Pipe, Bridge Castings, &c., &c. The company would most respectfully invite attention to their styles and patterns of Railing, which may be seen at their office.

BOILERS.

Tubular, Flue and Cylindrical Boilers, Water Tanks, Chimneys, and all other kinds of Boiler Work.

REPAIRS.

A separate department and force will be kept for repairs, where work will be done thoroughly and with despatch.

All work done in the establishment delivered either on the cars of the Wilmington & Manchester Rail Road or Wilmington & Weldon Rail Road, or in store at the Company's wharf, free of charge.

Having large facilities, the above work will be done on as reasonable terms as elsewhere, North or South, and in a prompt and satisfactory manner.

Consultation by letter or otherwise, in regard to plans and designs for mills or their furniture, and for machinery generally, willingly answered. All orders or communications to be addressed to the undersigned.

HENRY M. DRANE, Agent.

March 21. '55. tf—

GOLDSBORO',

FEMALE COLLEGE.

THE third Session of this Institution commences on Wednesday, the 3rd of January, 1855, and ends on the 3rd of June 1855.

Rev. JAS. H. BRENT, A. B., President.
Dr. MORGAN CLOSS late of Chapel Hill, Prof. of Mathematics.

And a full corps of Teachers in every branch.

Board, including Washing, Lights, Fuel, &c., per session,	$50 00
Tuition in Primary Department,	$10 00
Collegiate Department,	$20 00

One hundred dollars will cover all expenses of the session in the Collegiate course and all ornamental branches.

Pupils in primary department charged the usual price for ornamental branches. One half payable in advance.

Three Lectures on scientific subjects will be delivered each month.

We are making every effort to render the School the first in advantages and cheapness, and pledge to reduce prices, and multiply the advantages in proportion to the increase of patronage. When our number of pupils reaches 200 we shall be able to reduce the prices nearly one half, every one aiding us, is also aiding in placing the means of a superior education within the reach of almost every girl in the State.

We return thanks for the unexampled support we have had and believe it will be continued. For further information apply to the President of the faculty, or myself.

WM. K. LANE,
Pres't. Stockholder

Dec. 6, 1854. 5–tfs.

NOTICE.

INTENDING to make a new arrangement in our business relations, on the first of October next, we respectfully notify our friends and customers, that as we shall then wish to take a fresh start, all debts now due us MUST be paid before that time, in order that a settlement may be had between the members of our present firm. In the meantime, no new accounts will be opened, nor will any orders be filled, or goods sold on a credit, except with the express understanding that such liabilities shall be payable before the expiration of the time indicated; and up to which time we will dispose of our present Stock of Goods in Goldsboro, at a very small advance on cost, for CASH.

Those indebted to us will please settle their accounts without delay.

D. C. CARRINGTON & CO.,

Goldsboro', March 29th, 1855.

State of North Carolina,
WAYNE COUNTY.

Superior Court of Law, Fall Term, 1854.

Nancy Campbell, vs John Campbell. } Petition for Divorce.

THE defendant in this case being called a the Court-house door, comes not. It is therefore ordered by the Court, that publication be made in the Republican and Telegraph, two newspapers published in the town of Goldsboro, for three months, notifying the said defendant, John Campbell, to appear at the next Term of said Court to be held at the Court-house in Goldsboro', on the 1st Monday after the 4th Monday in March next, then and there to answer the plaintiffs petition, or the same will be heard exparte, and Judgment taken pro confesso.

Witness, W. C. Bryan, Clerk of said Court at office in Goldsboro', the [illegible] after the 4th Monday in [illegible] A. D. 1854.

W. C. BRYAN, Clerk.

March 1st, '55. 3m.

Goldsboro' Drug Store.

HAVING just received from the North, a large supply of Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Bils, Dye Stuffs, Varnishes, Paint and Varnish Orushes Hair and Nail Brushes; Glass and Putty Patent Medicines, Perfumery, Pomatums, and Tonics, for the Hair, also, a large variety of Fancy Articles, Port Monias, &c., &c.

I take this method of informing the Citizens of Goldsboro', and the adjoining counties that I will keep constantly on hand a good stock of the above articles and I hope by strict attention to business, and the wants of the public, to give satisfaction to all who may favor me with their patronage. All orders from Country Physicians, will be promptly filled, and proscriptions carefully compounded.

1 barrel of Mrs. Miller's Snuff.

For sale at the Drug Store W. H. MOORE.

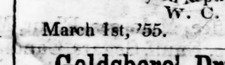
Goldsboro' 11, '54. 6–

JOSEPH R. BLOSSOM,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANT,

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Prompt personal attention given to all consignments, and Cash advances made on Produce to be shipped to other ports, or sold in this market.



Ploughs.

WE have a good supply of Ploughs just rec'd. for sale by ANDREWS & WASHINGTON

VALUABLE

Hotel for Sale.

ON November Term, of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, for the county of Johnston, A. D. 1854; the undersigned having been appointed Commissioner to sell the Real Estate of Henry J. Bell and Wm. J. M House, dec'd., in the town of Smithfield, Johnston county, known as the Johnson Hotel.

Will proceed to sell the aforesaid property at Public Sale, at the Court-house door on the 15th day of January next, on a credit of six months, the purchasers giving bond with approved security.

This property is well located, and is thought to be the best stand in town, and has recently undergone considerable repairs. Smithfield is one of the most healthy and pleasant villages in the eastern part of the State, situated on the Neuse River, near the head of Steamboat navigation, within three miles of the N. C. C Rail Road, having two good Schools in it, well patronized and supported, and now growing into considerable importance. There is but one other house of public entertainment in the place, it will therefore, readily be seen that such an opportunity for engaging in the business, is but very seldom offered. Those wishing to engage in Hotel keeping will do well to call and examine the premises on or before the day of sale.

EDWIN BOYKIN, Comr.

Dec. 6th, '54. 6–4t.

LENOIR SEMINARY

AND

FEMALE ACADEMIES.

WM. H. CUNNIGGIM, in charge of the Male Department.

Miss S. ABBIE SMITH; in charge of the Female Department.

THESE schools will open—the Female department on Monday the 4th December and the Male department on the 15th January Both to close on the 1st Thursday in June.

These schools are located in a healthy and pleasant part of the country, some ten miles from Kinston, and situated in separate buildings ½ mile apart, in a line north and south. Ladies will obtain board with the Instructress, at Mr. Venter's, north of the Schools, and young men, at Mr. Dawson's, and at other places south of the same; so that in passing to and from the boarding-houses there will be no meeting of the students of the separate schools.

Board, including washing and lights,	$5 to $6
Tuition in the English branches.	6 to $8
Latin with higher branches of Mathematics,	$12 00
EXTRAS—Music, with the use of instruments,	$20 00
French, Drawing, Painting, Monochromatic Polychromatic, Wax Flowers, each,	$8.00

For further particulars, address the Secretary of the Committee or the principal, at Noinston, Lenoir county, N. C.

JOHN S. ALDRIDGE,
T. W. DAWSON,
G. W. VENTERS, Secy. } Com.

Nov. 22, 1854. 5 -10w.

DOCTOR YOURSELF

The Pocket ÆSCULAPIUS:

OR, EVERY ONE HIS OWN Physician.

THE Fifteenth Edition, with One Hundred Engravings, showing Diseases and Malformations of the human system in every shape and form. To which is added a Treatise on the Diseases of Females being of the highest importance to married people, or those contemplating marriage.

WM. YOUNG, M. D.

Let no further be advanced to purchase a copy of the ÆSCULAPIUS to his ruin. It may save him from an early grave. Let no young man or woman enter into the sacred obligations of married life without reading the Pocket ÆSCULAPIUS. Let no one suffering from a hacknied Cough, Pain in the Side, restless nights, nervous feelings, and the whole train of Dyspectic sensations, and give up by their physician, be another moment without consulting the ÆSCULAPIUS. Have the married, or those about to be married any impediment, read this truly useful book, as it has been the means of saving thousands of unfortunate creatures from the very jaws of death.

Any person sending Twenty-Five cents enclosed in a letter, will receive one copy of this work by mail, or five copies will be sent for $1,00.

Address [post paid,] DR. WM YOUNG.
No. 152 Spruce st., Phila.
8—1y.

1000 ACRES PINE LAND

For Sale.

BEING desirous of making some change in my business, I offer for sale a part of my lands in Brunswich County. These lands lie on the waters of Town Creek and Hoods Creek, high and pleasantly situated, about 13 miles from Wilmington.

There are some 20 tasks of Turpentine Boxes now cut on the land, a large portion of which, are young, having been cut within four years past.

There is also a Turpentine Distillery of 20 Barrel Capacity, connected with the business, situated on Town Creek at the head of Tideway where flats of any size can load at any stage of the water, without the least difficulty.

The Houses are all good, comprising a dwelling, a number of negro houses built last winter, corn crib, stables and other houses necessary for such a business. There is also some swamp land, belonging to the tract, said to be equal to any in the State, and a quantity of up land if cleared and put in a state of cultivation [illegible] Corn, Cotton, Peas and Potatoes very abundantly.

Persons desirous of purchasing will do well to call an examine the premises. Mr. Hugh McArn, who is on the premises, will take pleasure in shewing the lands.

JAMES E. METTS.

Wilmington, N. C. Aug. 24th, '54. 43.

MRS. CASTEX & WHEAT.

FASHIONABLE MILLINERS AND MANTUA MAKERS.

In their New Store on East Centre Street,

WOULD respectfully inform the Ladies of Goldsboro and vicinity, that they have just returned from the North with a full assortment of MILLINERY & DRESS GOODS.

While North they engaged the services of an excellent Milliner, who will assist them in the prompt execution of all orders which they may receive. Bonnets cleaned and pressed to order

They also have a supply of Odd Fellow's Regalia on hand.

Sept. 28, 1854. 47–

NOTICE.

DR. DAVIS & MOORE have this day entered into Co-Partnership, for the purpose of practicing Medicine, and offer their professional services to the citizens of Goldsboro', and surrounding country. Dr. Davis can be found at the office when not professionally engaged. Dr. Moore can be found at the office of Dr. D., or at the Drug Store in the day, and at Mr. E. B. Borden's residence at night.

Jan. 20

W. DAVIS, W. H. MOORE

MOORE, STANLY & CO.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS

WM. P. MOORE,
JNO. A. STANLY, } Wilmington, N. C.
J. W. JONES.

LIBERAL CASH ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS

REFERENCES.

O. G. Parsley,	Wilmington, N. C.
E. P. Hall,	"
Chas. Slover,	Newbern, "
A. T. Jerkins,	"
Geo. H. Brown,	Washington, "
M. Stevenson,	"
Williams, Butler & Co.,	Charleston, S. C.
Barnes, Bliss & Rudderow,	New York.
Copeland, Williams & Co.	Boston.
Chas. Smith,	"
Thos. Allibone,	Philadelphia.
Cochran & Russell,	"
Jas. Corner & Sons,	Baltimore.
Wheebe & Dickinson,	"
R. M. Blackwell & Co.,	New York.

1–

Great Improvement in Dentistry.

T. B. CARR, M. D. D. D. S.,

GRADUATE of the New York College and Practical Dentist for the last ten years, has been practicing in Wilmington nearly two years, where he is permanently located. He has the only right in this State to use Allen's present improvement (the same kind of work that took the first premium at the State fair in Raleigh last Fall) by which incorruptable artificial teeth are cemented to PLATINA PLATE with indestructible mineral cement. This cement is as strong as the teeth and perfectly fuses to the teeth and plate, forming a solid and continuous Gum, which is perfectly natural and life-like in appearance, never changes color, and does not become offensive to the wearer, as there is no place for food or the secretions of the mouth to lodge.

He also inserts teeth on fine gold plate with or without artificial gums. The price of teeth on Platina Plate is the same as those on gold plate, viz: $150 for an entire set. $7 each for number less than ten. All teeth returnable without charge after three months' trial if not perfectly satisfactory. They are warranted to answer the purpose of mastication and not to be distinguished from natural teeth. Teeth inserted immediately after the extraction of the old roots and remodelled after the gums are shrunken without any charges. Decayed teeth filled with gold so that they will never decay or ache.

Dr. Carr having devoted all his life to his profession (his father has been practicing medicine and dentistry more than thirty years) can confidently assure the public that every operation entrusted to him will be performed in the most scientific manner.

Mechanical work done for dentists residing in the country.

Wilmington, May 18, 1854. -tf

HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

THIS invaluable Cordial in extracted from Herbs and Roots which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public as an efficacious remedy, it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases of Impotency, Spermatorhœa, Disorders of Sexuality, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses Fluor Albus or Whites or for arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or it loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physican prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

DEBILITY

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, were they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its victims, from ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY,

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, mislead as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves, Premature Impotency. Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shriveling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the censual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the falicities of Impressing both mental and bodily capacity, Behold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

MARRIAGE,

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append a long list of recommendations, certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial" only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL," is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the manufacturer's signature on the lable of each bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery.

☞ Sold for $2 per bottle; six for $10; $16 per dozen.

Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 2 Franklin Row, Vine street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa., to whom all orders must be addressed. For sale by all respectable Drug gists and Merchants throughout the country.

Wholesale, by P. M. COHEN & Co., Charleston, S. C.; PEEL & STEVENS, Alexandria, Va.; MACPHERSON & MARSHALL, Baltimore, Md.

March 30—2t

A Chance to Make Money.

Profitable and Honorable Employment!!

THE subscriber is desirous of having an agent in each county and town of the Union. A capital of from 5 to $10 only will be required, and anything like an efficient, energetic man can make from three to five dollars per day;—indeed some of the Agents now employed are realizing twice that sum. Every information will be given by addressing (postage paid. WM. A. KINSLER,

Box 1228, Phila., Pa., Post Office.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE progress of time and consequent change of season has made it necessary for us to provide for your Winter wants. We have done so, and we now have on a first rate stock of laid in with care, and such as we believe will suit the people of Wayne, and the surrounding counties. It is impossible to enumerate all the articles here, but among them are Broad-Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Merinos, Alapaccas, Silks, D'Laines, D'Beg's, Poplins, Raw Silks, Prints, Cambrics, Mouslins, Ribbons, Velvets, Shirting, Sheeting, Ginghams, Osnabergs, Chicasaw and Choctaw Stripes, Marlboro and Carolina Stripes, and Plaide, Linseys, Kerseys, Blankets, Drillings, Flannels, Linens, Table Cloths and Covers, and as Ready-Made Clothing is low, we have a good stock of Heavy Clothing, superior to any we have ever had, and astonishingly cheap. Consisting of Overcoats business Coats, Pants and Vests, with a few Cloth Coats, and Cassimere Pants.

Winter Goods,

Hardware.

Full Sets of Blacksmiths Tools; Bellows from 34 inches down to 28. Nails, Locks, Hinges, all sorts; Planes, Saws, Files, Augers, Chisels, Compasses, Table Pocket Cutlery, Trace Chains, Hoes, Smoothing Irons, Pots, Spiders, Ovens, Cart Boxes, Hatchets, Axes, (warranted,) Irons, Steel and Tonges, Iron, Steel, &c.

Boots & Shoes,

Hats and Caps, Young America, Wide Awake, Extra Congress, Il Puritana, and other beautiful styles, Groceries.

Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Salt, Spices, Cigars, &c.. In Agricultural Implements, we expect to offer a good supply of the best in use, as soon as received.

Leather,

Sole, Calf Skins, and Lining Skins—Spun Cotton, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Brushes, Window Glass, Putty, an assortment of the soaps and Perfumery. As it is impossible in advertisement to enumerate all the articles we have, we extend a general invitation to the public to call and see for themselves.—Our prices are moderate, profits very small, and we hope by strict attention to the wants of the community to meet a continuance of your favors.

Produce taken in payment as usual.

ANDREWS & WASHINGTON.

Oct. 10, 1854. -50

AYER'S PILLS,

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Bilious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c. &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness [illegible] if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious, often fatal diseases, which might have been [illegible] by the timely and judicious use of a [illegible] This is alike true of Colds, Feverish [illegible] Bilious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing any thing hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the many eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention:

DR. A. A. HAYES, Analytical Chemist, of Boston, and State Assayer of Massachusetts, whose high professional character is endorsed by the HON. EDWARD EVERETT, Senator of the U. S.

ROBERT C. WINTHROP, Ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives.

ABBOTT LAWRENCE, Minister Plen. to England.

JOHN B. FITZPATRICK, Cath. Bishop of Boston.

Also, DR. J. R. CHILTON, Practical Chemist, of New York City, endorse by

HON. W. L. MARCY, Secretary of State.

WM. B. ASTOR, the richest man in America.

S. LELAND & Co., Propr's of the Metropolitan Hotel, and others.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men is found in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence a self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If, however, there should be any one who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known. Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effect were known. Many eminent Physicians have delared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effect upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

For minute directions, see wrapper on the Box.

PREPARED BY

JAMES C. AYER,

Practical and Analytical Chemist,

LOWELL, MASS.

Price 25 Cents per Box. Five Boxes for $1.

SOLD BY

Sold by Wm. H. Moore, Goldsboro', and by Druggists and dealers in Medicine everywhere.

NEW ARRANGEMENT.

THERE having heretofore been a great deal of just complaint on the part of the traveling community on account of the absence of a general through ticket from Weldon and Wilmington northward, the Mail Line takes great pleasure in stating that the grounds of this complaint have been removed and on and after the 1st of February, passengers can get tickets at Weldon for Petersburg Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia New York City, and at Wilmington to the four last named places, and vice versa.

Two trains will continue to run daily as heretofore leaving Weldon at 3 1-2 P. M. and 11 P.M. The following are the rates of fare.

From Weldon to Petersburg, $2,50 to Richmond $3,50, Weldon to Washington $7,00, to Baltimore $8,00, Wilmington to Washington $11,00 to Baltimore $12,00, Weldon to Philadelphia $10,00 to New York $12,00, Wilmington to Philadelphia $14,00, to New York $15,50.

For further information for Tickets apply to Mr S. DARRACOTT the ticket Agent of W. & R. R. R. Co. at Wilmington or to J. F. Simmons Agent at Weldon.

B. F. DARRACOTT.
Through Agent.
Weldon, N.C Feb. 8. Mail Line.
14-1y

Marble, Stone and Slate Yard
WILMINGTON.

The subscriber respectfully notifies the public that he has recently established in this town, a Marble, Stone and Slate Yard and is now prepared to fill all orders for Monuments, Tombs, Furniture and Pluming work. Also on hand a number of Marble for building purposes.

Also, Flagging and Curb Stone.

Blue, Green and Variegated Slate for fire-proof roofing furnished on reasonable rates.

Orders attended to with dispatch, and on moderate terms. Marble Yard on Water street near the Rail Road.

W. G. MILLIGAN.
Wilmington, May 4th, 1854. 26 1y

The American's Friend.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

To the citizens of the United States:

I most humbly and sincerely thank you for the immense patronage which you have bestowed upon my Pills. I take this opportunity of stating that my Ancestors were all American citizens, and I entertain for all that concerns America and the Americans, the most lively sympathies, so much so that I originally compound these Pills expressly to suit your climate, habits, constitutions, and manner of living, intending to establish myself among you which I have now done, by taking premises in New York. THOS. HOLLOWAY, 38, Corner of Nassau and Ann St., New York.

Purification of the blood, and Liver and bilious complaints.

The citizens of the Union suffer much from the disorders of the Liver and Stomach, scarcely any are free from the influence of these destructive maladies, hence life wears fast. The fair sex, perhaps the most handsome in the world at a certain period when, distressing to say, [illegible] lose their teeth and good looks, while yet in the heyday of life, such sad evils may be effectually remedied by continually keeping the blood pure, and the Liver and Stomach in a healthy action, when life will flow smoothly, and resemble plants in a congenial clime, where an eternal spring appears to reign. As it regards the preservation of the human frame, and the duration of life, much may be effected, and I say fearlessly, that health and life can be prolonged for many years beyond their ordinary limits if Holloway's Pills are taken to purify the blood according to the rules laid down for health contained in the directions which accompany each box.

A CASE OF WEAKNESS AND DEBILITY, OF 10 YEARS STANDING, CURED BY HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

Copy of a letter from Captain John Johnson, Astor House, New York, dated January 5th, 1854.

To Prof. Holloway, 38 corner of Ann and Nassau Street, New York.

Sir,—It is with the most heartfelt pleasure I have to inform you that I have been restored to health by taking your Pills. For [illegible] years, I suffered from a derangement of the Liver and Stomach, and was reduced to such an extremity that I gave up my ship expecting to go to sea any more, as I had every remedy that was recommended, but all to no purpose; and had given myself up to dispair, when I was at last recommended to take your Pills. After using them for three months, the result is that I am in better health than I have been for the past, and indeed as well as ever in my life. You are quite at liberty to make known for the benefit of others. I remain, sir, yours respecfully,

JOHN JOHNSON.

All Pills are counterfeit [illegible]

Acne, Ague, Bilious complaints, blotches on the skin, bowel complaints, constipation of the bowels, chills, Dropsy, Erysipelas, Female irregularities, Fevers of all kinds, Gout, Head-ache, Indigestion, Jaundice, Liver complaints, Piles, Retention of Urine, Scrofula, or King's Evil, Stone and Gravel, Secondary symptoms, Venereal Affections, Worms of all kinds, weakness from whatever cause.

 Sold at the Establishment of Prof. Holloway, 38, corner of Ann and Nassau Sts., New York; also by all respectable Druggists and dealers in Medicines throughout the United States, in boxes at 37½ cents, 87 cents, and $1.50 cents each. To be had wholesale of the principal Drug Houses in the Union.

☞ There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.

For sale by ANDREWS & WASHINGTON, Goldsboro'

PALMALE & BULL,

MANUFACTURERS of plain, and Japanned Tin Ware, and dealers in Stoves Cookin ranges and grates; Suction, and chain Pumps Lead, Zinc and Iron pipe; Children's Toys, Bathing Tubs, &c.

Guns and Rifles can be bought here as cheap as any where in the State.

Particular attention will be paid to repairing Stills, Roofing, Guttering, Plumbing, &c.

Country purchasers may find it to their own advantages to favor us with a call, as we are confident that no establishment in the State can offer more favorable terms.

Goldsboro', Sept. 12, '54. 45--tf

The Great Discovery.

KROLLERION!

FOR CURLING THE HAIR!

FOR many years it has been the object of deepest study with chemists and others, to produce a fluid that, applied to the hair, would cause it to wave and curl equal in beauty to the natural curl.

The Krollerion

is the only article ever offered to the world that will effect this most desirable object.—But three or four applications are necessary to curl it as much as may be desired, and for any length of time. From the many testimonials of those who have used it, the subscriber does not hesitate to warrant the Krollerion to give satisfaction, and prove as recommended in all cases.

The recipe for making, with full directions for use, will be sent on the receipt of one dollar, post paid. The ingredients will not cost over 12 cents.

Direct to H. A. FREEMONT,
3m.— Warren, Trumbull Co., O.

$50 to $100 per Month Insured.

I WILL give any one, on receipt of One Dollar, post paid, an employment, requiring no capital, by which I insure from 50 to $100 per month, [illegible] evenings. My agreement does not [illegible] being informed thereof, cheerfully refund money.

Address [illegible]
March 15, [illegible]

Clocks, Watches, & Jewelry!

Fall and Winter Trade.

THE Subscriber begs leave to announce to his numerous friends and customers that he has greatly increased his former stock of

Clocks, Watches, & Jewelry

by a large and well assorted supply, selected by himself, purposely for the Fall and Winter Trade all of which he is daily receiving, at the SIGN OF THE "GOLD WATCH,"

NEARLY OPPOSITE THE HOTEL.

He has now on hand a large and select stock of Gold and silver watches, gold and silver pen and pencil cases, gold breast, guard and fob chains, gold diamond rings and breast pins, gold guard and fob keys, gold sleeve and breast buttons, gold bracelets and ear rings, gold and silver thimbles and spectacles, beautiful fans, inlaid with pearl—a new and rich pattern; pen and pocket knives of superior qualities, porte monnaies, Wade & Butcher's, and the Lecoultre Razors, segar cases, Ladies Port Folios, Jet Bracelets and Brouches, A large and select assortment of clocks. Hair brushes, English and Buffalo Dressing combs, &c., &c

It is his aim to extend his patronage solely by personal attention to his business and punctually to his engagements, and he will therefore endeavor to do his work in such a way as will satisfy his customers, maintain his reputation, and secure for him the friendship and esteem of all his patrons. W. SEYMOUR.

Goldsboro', Nov. 2, 1852, 1

Just received.—A general and splendid assortment of Perfumery and Fancy Articles, suitable to Fall Trade Toilet soaps and lubin Powders; 30,000 Havanna Cigars. A fresh and large supply of drugs, medicines and chemicals.—100 ozs. of French and English quinine, A large supply of white lead just received, for sale by G. & D. DuPRE
Wilmington, Oct. 5.

CHEMICALS! CHEMICALS!!—Aqua Ammonia, Iff, Spirits Ammonia Aromat, Lunar Caustic, Quinine, Benzoic Acid, Nitric Acid, Muriatic Acid, Tartanic Acid, Morphine, Glyceum Santomir, Tannin, Strychnine, Arsenate Quinine, Iodide Quinine, Potass Iodid, Potass Iodid, Potass Bicarb, Potass Carbonat, Citric Acid, Cinchonice, Vallett's Mass, Lactucarium, Opium, Solution of Sisqui Nitrate of Iron, Ether Butynic, Ether, Nitrous, Phos. Iron, Fowler's Solution, Donovan's Solution.

For sale by Dr. A. O. BRDLEY,
Wholesale and Retail Druggist.
Wilmington Sept, 13, '64. 45--

(Special Notice.)

☞ HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL. The merits of this purely vegetable extract for the removal and cure of physical prostration, genital debility, nervous affections, &c., &c., are fully described in another column of this paper, to which the reader is referred. $2 per bottle, 3 bottles for $5, 6 bottles for $8; $16 per dozen.—Observe the marks of the gennine.

Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3, Franklin Row, Vine street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa., to whom all orders must be addressed. For sale by all respectable Druggists and Merchants throughout the country.

Wholesale by P. M. COHEN & Co., Charleston S. C.; PEEL & STEVENS, Alexandria, Va.; McPHESON & MARSHALL, Baltimore, Md.
30—21

BORDEN & BRIDGERS.

TAKE this method of informing the citizens of Wayne that they [having an eye single to the wants of the people] have opened a

Large Stock of Groceries

and are daily receiving fresh supplies to their already abundant stock, which they are determined to sell at such small profits as such accommodating terms that the tidious cannot fail to be pleased. [illegible] necessary to enumerate articles. Our [illegible] entirely opposite the tin establishment, where we are always ready to [illegible] for them selves, eat, drink and be [illegible] of the people do not live up to this scriptural injunction and fault shall not rest upon our shoulders. Then "come up, roll up, tumble up, jump up," we are not particular as to the means which you employ in getting up) and get something worth eating. Come one, come all, great and small, rich and poor, old and young, to the family grocery. Be in a monstrous hurry.—Lose no time, or first thing you know, we will have made as much money as we want, close doors, wind up and retire from business. Then you will all regret to the longest day that you live, that you lost such favorable opportunities of buying yourself rich at

BORDEN & BRIDGERS,
Pleasant Corner
Goldsboro', Oct. 19, 1853. 50

JUST Received another supply of Musical Instruments at the N. C. Music Store, where may always be found choice music and music books for all instruments, Pianos from the celebrated factory of Knabe & Gaekle, Baltimore.—Violincellos, Drums, Fifes, Guitars, Violins, Flutes Clarionetts, flageolets, Octave flutes, Accordeous, ranging from 60 cents to $15, banjos, tamborines Violin screws, pins, bridges, bows. A new lot of Italian strings both for Guitar and Violin. A largeassortment of perfumery, Hair brushes, Porte Monies, &c

ARTISTS MATERIALS.—A beautiful lot of Landscape patterns for Oil Painting, Japan boxes, paints, brushes, oils and varnish, canvass in piecesor on stretches.

Drawing patterns, penciles, paper, bristo, board Mill boards, Graduate Tint paper, pastal, water colors, pictures, picture frames Gilt Moulding, Glass, &c., &c.

K. W. PETERSILLIA.
Raleigh, Nov. 17, 1853

GOLDSBORO'
FURNITURE WAREHOUSE.

THE Subscriber would respect fully inform the citizens of Goldsboro' and the surrounding Counties, that he is now receiving and opening, at the Store formerly occupied by Messrs. Edmundson & Borden, a large and fashionable assortment of household Furniture of all sorts, such as—

Sofas, mahogany; Tete a Tetes; Rocking chairs; Easy chairs without rockers; Card Tables; Cottage bedsteads; Centre Tables, marble tops; mahogany Sideboards; Mahogany Washstands; Black Walnut Washstands; Foot Mats; Writing Desks, mahogany; mahogany Secretaries; Mahogany Dress Bureaus; Curled Maple cane seat chairs; Black Walnut do.; Parlor cushioned mahogany spring seat chairs; Looking Glasses; Childrens' cane rocking chairs; childrens' cane table chairs; childrens' wood chairs; childrens willow chairs; cane seat stools; wood seat stools; cradles; cribs; Towel stands; Ladies' work boxes, with or with out glasses; Mahogany knife Trays, Toy Sideboards and Buteaus; willow cabs, 2 wheels; willow cabs 4 wheels. Also a general assortment of all kinds of common Furniture.

The Subscriber carries on in connexion with the above, the Cabinet Making business. Orders for home-made work promptly attended to. [illegible] Furniture made to look nearly [illegible]

J. H. PHILYAW.

Cheap.

[illegible] received a full stock of Groceries, now complete and for sale at the lowest cash prices; all articles sold not proving as recommended, exchanged or money refunded. Call before purchasing elsewhere. My stock consists in part as follows:

100 bags Rio Coffee,
20 do Laguira, do.,
25 do Old Gov. Java, do.,
10 do St. Domingo, do.
25 barrels C. Yellow Sugar,
10 do Yellow do.
10 do A Coffee Crushed do
10 do A Crushed do.
3 hhds Porto Rico do.
50 boxes Wm. Colgates pale Soap,
50 do do do No. 1 do.
50 boxes Stewart and Bussing Candies,
2 boxes Loaf Sugar,
25 bbls. best Gider Vinegar,
10 do Mess Pork,
4 do Lorillard's Scotch Snuff
4 half bbls. do do.
2 bbls. Dills do.
10 boxes Colgates Pearl Starch,
10 half bbls. do do.
20 doz Yeast Powders,
4 do Sweet Oil,
20 Gross Matches,
25 boxes Cheese,
240 cans 5 lb. Potash,
8 boxes Ground Pepper,
5 do do Coffee,
10 bbls. Irish Potatoes,
5 Quintals Codfish,
10 barrels Onions,
15 dozen Collins' Axes,
6 nest Tubs,
10 do Flour Pails,
30 dozen Water Buckets,
1 do Iron bound half bushels,
1 do nest half bushels,
1 do Well Buckets,
3 dozen Willow Baskets,
6 dozen Kegs, 5 10 and 15 gallons,
50 boxes Tobacco, different grades, at manfactory prices. GEO. H. KELLEY.
Oct. 12. 50–

CIGARS! CIGARS!

250,000 ON hand and for sale on accomodting terms in lots to suit.

—ALSO—

A general assortment of Tobacco, Snuff, Pipes, Cigar Cases, etc. etc.

Proprietors of Hotels, Merchants, Grocers, and all others who love a good article of the weed, are respectfully invited to call and examine qualities and prices.

J. VAN SICKLE.
Wilmington, June 7, 1854 31-tf

FEVER AND AGUE.

Dr. Edward Bleecker's STAMPEDE MIXTURE, for the Fever and Ague, Chagres Fever, Dyspepsia and all Billious Affections.

THE proprietor of this medicine will state, without hesitation or fear of contradiction, that the Stampede Mixture has cured more persons where it has been introduced, than any other medicine in use for the above diseases. This medicine has neither Arsenic or Quinine in its composition, all of the ingredients are of a perfectly healthy character and highly stimulating and invigorating in their tendency. Persons while using this medicine will not be affected by exposure to water or a damp atmosphere no more than when in their usual health. Planters in sections of the conntry where the Ague prevails, will do well to adopt this medicine, as the patient is not obliged to lay by while under treatment, and they may be assured of a speedy cure. The proprietor could introduce thousands of certificates from those of [illegible] but prefers saying [illegible] and you will have [illegible] full directions accompanying [illegible] the office, showcured when all [illegible] For Dyspepsia, and all other billious complaints there is no a better medicine in the [illegible] Rheumatism and Gout; for these complaints take a tablespoonful twice a day.

One bottle of this medicine very often has the desired effect—price $1 per bottle.

For sale by Druggists in all parts of the United States and Canada.

All wholesale orders must be addressed to Mead & Bleecker, sole proprietors, 98 Broadway, New York.

AGENTS.—P. F. Pescud, Raleigh; Simons Ruff & Co., Charleston.
August 30, 1854. 43 1y

MY STOCK IS NOW COMPLETE.

Received per Schr. W. H. Smith.

25 BOXES No. 1 Soap, Wm. Colgates;
20 half do. pale do do.;
2 bbls. large new No. 1 Mackerel;
10 do. R. L. & A. Stewart's Crushed Sugar;
2 boxes do Soap;
5 bbls. Irish Potatoes;
5 do Red Onions;
10 matts of old Gov. Java Coffee;
5 bags best St. Domingo;
1 keg Saltpeter;
5 do Gum Camphor;
5 do. do. Asafœtida;

Low for cash at GEO. H. KELLEY'S.
Wilmington, Sep. 23. 46

CHEESE & BUTTER.

100 BOXES prime retailing Cheese; 10 kegs Goshen Butter—very good. For sale by ZENO H. GREENE.
November, 8th 4. 1-

DR. J. R. MARCHISI'S

Celerated Catholican

FOR THE RELIEF AND CURE

of Suffering Females.

It stands pre-eminent for its curative powers in all the diseases for which it is recommended, usually called FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

Of these are Prolapsus Uteri, or Falling of the Womb; Fluor Albus, or Whites; Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb; Incidental Hemorrhage, or Flooding; Painful, Suppressed, and irregular Menstruation, &c., with all their accompanying evils, [Cancer excepted,) no matter how severe or of how long standing.

The Catholicon far surpasses other remedies, in being more certain, less expensive, and leaving the system in a better condition. Let all interested call and obtain a pamphlet (free) containing ample proof, from the most respectable sources, of the beneficial results of its use; together with letters from highly experienced Physicians, who have used it in their practice, and speak from their own observations.

I have no hesitation in saying, Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon is invaluable in uterine diseases generaly. I have used it in Fluor Albus, Amenorrhœa Prolapsus Uteri, and in cases of extensive ulceration of the vagina and os uteri. It is worthy of the notice of the Faculty.

JOHN C. ORRICK, M. D.
Baltimore, Md.

My wife, having used several bottles of Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon, and having derived great benefit therefrom, has no hesitancy in pronouncing it one of the best medicines ever produced [illegible] commend it to [illegible]

Hernando, Miss.

I must say, from my own experience and personal observations in my practice, it has proved to be the best and safest remedy for the diseases for which it is recommended, viz: that of female weakness, such as Prolapsus Uteri, Flour Albus, and all irregular and painful menstruation, and diseases of irritation of the female organs.

D. Y. FOOTE, M.D.
Syracuse, N. Y.

Pamphlets had gratis at the Store of Dr. WM. H. MOORE, Agent, Druggist, Goldsboro', N. C. P. F. PESCUD, Raleigh; Dr. A. O. BRADLEY, Wilmington, Wholesale and Retail Agents.

Sold by most of the leading Druggists in the State.

J. B. MARCHISI & CO, Proprietors, Central Depot 304 Broadway N. Y.
52-

J. M. ROBINSON,

WILMINGTON, N. C.,
IMPORTER AND GENERAL DEALER IN ENGLISH, GERMAN AND AMERICAN HARDWARE.

Hoop Iron, Plow and Bar Iron, of all kinds, Extra Cast Steel, Cutlery Nails. Anvils, Vices and Smith's Bellows, Shovels Spades, and Hollow Ware, Coffee, Mills, &c.—Albertson's, Horton's and Conger's warranted Cast Steel Cooper's Tools in general: Files and Rasps, Ped and Pocket Knives, Razors, Scissors and Shearn Table and Dessert Enives and Forks, Silver Plates Tea and Table Spoons and Forks, Tea Trays and Candlesticks, Brass, Iron and Stee Shovels and Tongs and Andirons, Sauce Pans, Frying Pans, assorted Gridirons, English and American Wagon Boxes, House and Hand Bells, Cut Tacks, Brads and Sparables, American Locks and Laches, Brass and Iron Butts and Screws, Mill, Pitt, and other Saws, Joiner's Tools, Brass Goods, in great variety Iron, Brass and Copper Wire, Sheet Brass, Coopers Iron Rivets, Bick Irons, Cooper's Truss Hoops, assorted sizes, Well and Cistern Pumps, Builders and Cabinet Hardware, Ship Builders Hardware Butcher's Tools, MECHANIC'S Tools in general, House-Keeping Articles, Fish Hooks Needles, Pins, &c., &c.

Wilmington, April 1 1851.

GRISWOLD & COBB.

(SUCCESSORS TO GREGORY & GRISWOLD.)

RESPECTFULLY inform the citizens of Wayne and the surrounding country that they are daily receiving from the Northern Markets, their fall and winter stock of Dry Goods of every variety and style;

Hats, Caps, Boots, and Shoes, of every style and price; Bonnets, Groceries, Hardware, Crockery, Paints, Oils, &c., &c.; and in fact every article usually called for in a retail store.

They invite the community to call and examine their stock before they purchase, feeling confident it will be to their advantage to do so. They take pleasure in exhibitiug their Goods—do not grumble if they do not purchase after examining them.

They will give the highest market price for produce and sell as low as any other establishment in the place, for cash or good responsible credit.

The Senior partner of this Firm duly thankful for the liberal patronage which the old establishment received at the hands of a generous public, sincerely hopes that his numerous friends and customers will still find it to their interest to give him a call, assuring them that they shall always be treated with the same generous courtesy and fair dealing as heretofore.

Goldsboro', Oct. 12, 1853. 49 G. & C.

Grocery Store.

THE subscribers have just received, at their old stand near the Water Station, a Fresh stock of Groceries, and [illegible] Their assortment consists in part of

Sugar, Coffee, Molasses, Flour, Meal, Tobacco, Snuff, Segars, Candles, Soap, Raisons, Candy, Apples, Oranges, Crackers, Cheese, Ginger, Pepper, Spice, Shot and Powder, Bacon and Lard,

All of which they will sell low for cash or barter, and will pay the highest market price for all kinds of produce.

WM. PRIVETT & SON.
Goldsboro', Jan. 22. 11

B. H. STAMMIRE

BEGS to call the attention of the gentlemen of Wayne and the adjoining counties to the fact that he is now opening a fashionable and of varied assortment of Goods for the male portion of the community. The newest designs of an elegant assortment of SILK CASSIMERE and MARSEILLS VESTS, also Pants of French Elastic Cassimere, beautiful textures; besides Black, Blue, Olive Claret and Drab cloths, all varieties. Silk, Cashmere, and Thread Undershirts, Linen and cotton shirts. The variety will make a man cool to look at it. A great variety of Standing collars, fine linen, latest styles. A superior lot of Summer ready made clothing, the handsomest ever opened in Goldsboro'.—Pocket handkerchiefs, a great variety of Stocks and Neck-ties, also a supply of gloves and socks. Silk Flushing coats and Pongee coats Call t his old stand and get a new suit.

Fancy Cassimere Pants,

[April 20.—tf.]

Business Cards.

Book, Music & Piano Store.
BY S. W. WHITAKER,

MARKET STREET, WILMINGTON, N. C.
ONE DOOR ABOVE SCOTT & BALDWIN'S CLOTHING STORE,

WHERE may at all times be found a large and well selected assortment of Books, Pianos, and Music wholesale or retail.

All orders from any part of the State will be promptly attended to.

S. W. WHITAKER.

T. C. WORTH,

COMMISSION AND FORWARDING
MERCHANT,
WILMINGTON, N. C.
November 7, 1850. 1 1y

GEO. HARRISS,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,
WILMINGTON, N. C.

☞ And Agent for Powell's regular line of New York, and Heron's regular line of Philadelphia Packets Nov. 7—1 1y

J. C. LATTA,

COMMISSION MERCHANT AND GENERAL AGENT,
WILMINGTON, N. C.

GENERAL COMMISSION AND FORWARDING MERCHANT,
WILMINGTON, N. C.

REFEREES:
O. G. PARSLEY, Col. JNO. MCRAE, P. FERRELL, B. BRONSON, } Wilmington.
} Smithfield, N.C.
1 1y.

Dr. A. O. BRADLEY,

DRUGGIST & CHEMIST,
successor to
S. B. & J. A. EVANS,
WHOLESALE and RETAIL
DEALERS IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Paints, Oils, Glass, Patent Medicines, Perfumery, Cigars, Old Brandies and Wines, &c., &c., at low prices.
North West Corner Front and Market Sts.
WILMINGTON, N. C.

Co-PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.

C. & D. DuPRE,
WHOLESALE & RETAIL DRUGGISTS AND APOTHECARIES.
WILMINGTON, N. C.
C. DuPRE. D. DuPRE, JR.
May 2, 1853. 26—tf

MURRAY & GRANT

WHOLESALE GROCERS
AND
Commission Merchants,
WILMINGTON N. C.

C. DuPRE, & CO.,

FORWARDING
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANTS.
Wilmington, N. C.
July 12, '54. 36–1y.

QUINCE & COWAN,

WHOLESAIL & RETAIL
GROCERS.
Corner of Princess and Front streets,
Wimington, N. C. 36–

C. MYERS,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
HATS, CAPS, UMBRELLAS,
And WALKING CANES of every description
WHOLESALE & RETAIL,
FRONT STREET, WILMINGTON, N. C.
☞ Country Merchants supplied at N. Y. prices. 26

S. & D. TELLER,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN American, English, German & French
Dry Goods and Ready-made Clothing,
Adjoining the Commercial Bank,
SOLOMON TELLER, DAVID TELLER, } WILMINGTON, N. C.
N. B.—Bear in mind, ☞ Next door to the Commercial Bank.

J. & D. McRAE & Co.,

GENERAL
COMMISSION MERCHANTS.
WILMINGTON, N. C.
Liberal Advances made on Consignments.
[illegible] goods, Wharf for the [illegible] of Naval Stores, or other produce.
REFER TO:
James Griswold, Esq., Goldsboro'; Robert Bynum, Esq., Wilson; W. W. Peirce Esq., Warsaw; J. Campbell, Weldon. Nov. 27–4–1y

SPRING TRADE,
MARCH 1855.

WE are now prepared at our New Store, Nos. 78 and 80, Sycamore street, opposite Messrs. McIlwaine, Son & Co., to offer to Merchants of North Carolina and Virginia, the most commanding stock of Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, we have ever had.

One of our firm will remain in New York during the present month, and attend the AUCTION SALES, thus putting us daily in possession of many styles of goods, muuh below higher prices.

Merchants visiting this market, would do well to give our stock an examination before buying elsewhere.

STEVENSON & WEDDELL.
Petersburg, Va., March 10, '55. 17--1y

STEVESON & V DELL.

IMPORTERS AND JOBBERS OF
Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,
78 and 80 Sycamore Sts.
PETERSBURG, VA.
JOHN STEVENSON, JAMES WEDDELL, }
17 1y

J. D. LOVE,

DEALER IN CABINET FURNITURE
BEDSTEADS, CHAIRS, MATTRASSES, &c.
Front st., South of Market, Brown's Building
WILMINGTON, N. C.
November 7.

SAM'L. P. CAUSE,

COMMISSION MERCHANT
North Water street, Wilmington, N. C.
Will attend to the sale of all kinds of Country Produce, forwarding of Goods, &c., &c.

GEO. H. KELLEY,

COMMISSION MERCHANT,
Next door to A. A. Wannet's, on North Water Street,
WILMINGTON, N. C.,
will attend to the sale of all kinds of Country Produce, such as Corn, Peas, Meal, Bacon, Lard, &c. and will keep constantly on hand a full supply of Groceries, &c.

REFERENCES.—Willis Hall and P. Caraway of Wayne, and E. P. Hall, John McRae, Gen. Alexander McRae, and Willie A. Walker, of Wilmington.

J. H. FLANNER,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,
WILMINGTON, N. C.
November

WASHINGTON & LAFAYETTE HOTEL,

WILMINGTON, N. C.
David Thanty, Proprietor

WILKINSON & ESLER,
Upholsters and Paper Hangers
KEEP ON HAND AND MAKE TO ORDER
Mattresses, Feather Beds, Window Curtains and Fixtures.
All work in the above line done at shortest notice. Wilmington, N. C. Market St.
April 27. 26

James E. Metts,

Commission & Forwarding Merchant,
Wilmington, N. C.
Aug. 23rd, '54. 43-

WM. PURYEAR,

CARPENTER & HOUSE-JOINER
GOLDSBORO' N. C.,
Is ready as heretofore to execute all jobs committed to him, with dispatch and in a neat and workman like manner. Jan. 22–11

NOTICE.

DR. W. F. BERRY
HAS located himself in Clinton, and offers his professional services to the citizens of mison County

POLLEY & HART,

Manufacturers and Dealers in Stoves, Grates, Tin, Sheet Iron and Copper Wares Solar, Camphine, Fluid and Oil Lamps, Guns, Pistols, and a variety of other articles. We are also prepared to manufacture Turpentine Stills, at a less price than they can be bought for in New York Call and see
Wilmington, N. C.
Jan. 10 185 1-1y.

PRIVATE lessons in MUSIC on the Piano, Singing and also the French language.
TERMS, 20 dollars for 5 months.
PROF. PHILLIPPE HENLE',
Griswold's Hotel.
Goldsboro, Feb. 20, '55. 3m.

WM. A. GWYER,

GENERAL AGENT, FORWARDING, &
Commission Merchant,
WILMINGTON, N. C.

I take pleasure in informing my friends a I am prepared to give all business entrusted to me, efficient and personal attention. I have a wharf for naval Stores, with ample accommodations, Spirit House, and Warehouse. Consignments of Naval Stores for sale or shipment; and all kinds of country produce solicited. Cash advances made on consignments.
Nov. 7. 1y.

JNO. M. OLIVER,

Inspector of Naval Stores,
NEWBERNE, N. C.
REFERS TO
Jno. Blackwell Esq., Wm. P. Moore, A. T. Jerkins, Messrs. Dibble & Bro., Jas. C. Justice, Esq New Berne; E. Pipkin, Esq., Limestone, Wm. Kornegay, Esq. White Hall, B. K. Outlaw, Esqr Lenoir, C. B. Wood, V. A. Tolson, Craven;
Messrs. R. M. Blackwell & Co., New York.
Continues to receive and sell all kinds of naval Stores free of commission.

A. McRAE,

IMPORTER OF CHINA, GLASS AND EARTHENWARE
Granite Row, Front Street,
WILMINGTON, N. C.
Will sell all goods in his line at Northern [illegible]
May 5, 1855

DR. M. P. CRATON,

WOULD inform the citizens of Wayne he has permanently located himself the town of Goldsboro'. Having been actively engaged in the practice of his profession for the last three years in the South West, and from his previous, almost entire success, he is led to hope he may receive a liberal share of the public patronage. He may be found at all times at his office, opposite Dr Davis' during the day, and at the residence of Mr. Stammire at night, when not professionally engaged.
43-tf.

Dr. A. O. BRADLEY,

WHOLESALE & RETAIL DRUGGIST
Corner Front and Market Street, Wilmington, North Carolina.

WOULD respectfully call the attention of the citizens of Wilmington, and vicinity Physicians and Planters, to his extensive and carefully selected stock of Fresh Drugs, Chemicals, and Medicines.

PHYSICIANS
supplied with the purest French, English, and American Chemicals, Pharmaceutical Preparations Surgical Instruments, Trusses, Supporters, Lancets, Cupping Instruments, Medicine Bags, &c. &c.

PLANTERS
With Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Garden Seeds, Medicine Chests. &c. The attention of the Ladies is respectfully solicited to his assortment of Toilet Articles, Fancy Goods and Perfumeries. Country Merchants supplied with all articles in the Drug line, usually kept by them, at as low prices as the same quality of goods can be purchased North: Nov. 16, 1-